Terrorists storm consulate

Dutch gunmen kill hostage

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Indonesians holding a Dutch train in northern Holland shot another one of their hostages today as six of their countrymen stormed the Indonesian consulate building in Amsterdam, officials said.

Authorities said the shooting in the hijacked train near Beilen, in northern Holland, occurred during a lull in negotiations with a mediator selected by the gunmen.

They said the mediator, a South Moluccan resident of the Netherlands, had just left the train when a man was pushed to the door and was shot. He fell to the track and was believed dead.

The Indonesians then called the mediator on a field telephone, apparently to try to get the negotiations going again, Dutch officials said. The hijackers killed the train engineer and another man when they seized the train Tuesday and threatened to shoot their hostages one by one today unless their demands were met.

The Indonesians aboard the train and those who seized the consulate in downtown Amsterdam were South Moluccan nationalists, who seek independence for the South Molucca islands in the Indonesian archipelago. Police said members of the consulate staff fled from the building as the gunmen shot their way inside. It was not immediately known whether all personnel escaped.

Witnesses at a nearby hotel said three men escaped from the second floor of the building by climbing down a rope. One of the men was reported wounded when the gunmen opened fire. Armed police sealed off the area around the consulate building.

The gunmen stormed the building at 12:40 p.m. (6:40 a.m. EST) and took control of the consulate, police said.

The young Indonesians aboard the train demanded a bus to take them and an unspecified number of hostages to Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport and a plane to fly them to an undisclosed destination.

Justice Minister Dries Van Agt said the hijackers would not be allowed to leave the country because they killed the engineer and another man when they took over the train Tuesday.

The Rev. S. Metiary, a South Moluccan national, delivered the gunmen's demands after meeting with them for an hour. He said one of the men told him: "Now we have started this action, there's no point in giving up. We're going on."

The hijackers were said to be members of a South Moluccan youth organization campaigning for independence for their ancestral islands in the Indonesian archipelago.

Police said they believed there were 38 hostages still aboard the train following the escape or release of 25 Tuesday and Wednesday. They said an earlier estimate of 72 hostages resulted from telephone calls from anxious relatives of those aboard.

Four passengers were released shortly after the takeover; three others escaped later Tuesday, and 18 ran to safety under the cover of darkness Wednesday night from the unguarded rear section of the train, officials said. They said the remaining hostages included 13 women and 25 men, several of them over 60, but no children as officials had previously reported.

About 150 police, army marksmen and marine commandos ringed the four-coach train, which was standing in an open field with the bodies of the two dead men beside it. The cordon stayed about 650 yards away.

Officials said the gunmen had attached explosives to one of the coaches.

Authorities supplied the train early Wednesday with food, medical supplies and blankets. Officials said the train was heated but without lights.

"It's just to let us know they're around," Maltz said.

The second explosion occurred at 8:50 p.m. outside the downtown post office.

The third came 10 minutes later at a post office branch.

The fourth detonated outside the Social Security office at 9:40 p.m.

An unexploded device was found near the Florida State Employment office when a derelict picked up a brown paper bag he thought might contain a wine bottle, police said.

The man took it with him until he discovered it was an explosive device; he then called police.

A pedestrian was the victim of a hit-and-run accident near the scene of one of the bombings, but police said the incidents were not related.

Bomb-squad experts carefully examined two other bags found on sidewalks during the search but they contained only trash.

Have a problem? Chances are that Julie can assist

By GEOFF MAVIS
Record-Herald Staff Writer

A number of Fayette County senior citizens may be sleeping better at nights due to the efforts of Mrs. Julianna Harris, supporting services coordinator for the elderly under the "Help Anonymous" program in Fayette County.

Created last September with the assistance of the Fayette County Community Action Commission, Mrs. Harris' position entails those duties which enable an elderly person to retain a sense of independence while residing at home. Transportation to a physician or for shopping is provided, puzzling Medicare policies are clarified, and needed companionship is given.

Mrs. Harris, 805 Kohler Drive, seeks to provide solutions directly or indirectly to problems that arise in the households of senior citizens of all income brackets. She is on call from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and if she cannot directly solve a problem at hand, she will employ the aid of the information and referral service, ("Help Anonymous") headed by Mrs. Marsha Davis. Both ladies work together and seek solutions to such problems as those arising over social security payments and welfare benefits.

A lifelong resident of Fayette County, Mrs. Harris graduated from Miami Trace High School, and briefly attended Central State University. For the past three summers she worked for the local headstart program. She enjoys working with people of all ages, but in her new capacity, she deal specifically with elderly residents.

Senior citizens who telephone the Help Anonymous line (335-4144) are asked to give a day's notice of the time they wish to be visited. Mrs. Harris will then provide the needed assistance. If the situation cannot be diagnosed over the telephone, she will visit the home by herself, work alone or with relatives, and if necessary, refer the problem to a special service that may be able to handle it better.

So far, most of Mrs. Harris' clients have been located in Washington C.H., Bloomington, and Jeffersonville. However, she travels to all areas of the county, helping to complete medicare forms, and taking people to various programs for the elderly. Out of town relatives often call on Help Anonymous to periodically look in on a particular person.

The supporting services are sponsored by the Fayette County Health Department and funded through the Ohio Commission on Aging. Fayette County is one of eight counties in the Central Ohio Area Agency on Aging, which in turn is a part of the Ohio Commission on Aging.

Bureaucratic red tape is an integral part of the post's workload. Many forms must be filled out at the end of each month. The monthly records for September and October show that the numbers of individuals served were 141 and 84, respectively. Every monthly report must indicate the aforementioned information, what was done in each particular case, and an evaluation by the area agency advisory council of all activity.

Although her time is well-occupied at present, Mrs. Harris hopes to recruit volunteers who will call the homes of the elderly a few times a week and check up on how things are going. More information pamphlets are to be distributed throughout the county, each one bearing the notice that "Help Anonymous is available to assist you in finding the service you need or answer your questions confidentially."

If you are over 60, you're in luck.

Photographs of Loch Ness monster released

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — A researcher has shown a photographic slide of a rust-colored object purported to be the legendary Loch Ness monster. The object appeared to have two front appendages, a long neck and a head.

The slide showing was the latest in a series of revelations both in the United States and Great Britain in recent weeks concerning a group of pictures taken underwater by an American photographic team last June at Loch Ness in Scotland.

The team was headed by Boston patent attorney Robert Rines, who is also dean at the Franklin Pierce Law Center in Concord. He showed the slide to a group of about 50 students and friends Wednesday night.

The slide depicted an object with distinct features, including the frontal appendages, a trunk Rines said was 12 feet broad and a neck Rines said was 8 to 10 feet long.

"We think it will electrify the world," Rines said.

He said there were other, clearer photographs, some of which were shot at the considerably closer range of 4 feet. He said the monster was "looking right at us with its mouth open."

Rines showed the slide in Concord two days after an announcement was made in London that a scientific symposium scheduled for Dec. 9 and 10 to see Rines' pictures was canceled because of what the sponsors called excessive publicity in Britain.

First word of Rines' discovery and photos came on Nov. 22 in a copyright story in the Boston Globe. Since then, a number of scientists who have seen one or more of the pictures, have commented publicly. Most have praised the clarity of the pictures.

Wednesday night's showing of one of the slides was the first to a lay audience. Rines said the slide was taken by an underwater camera at a depth of 45 feet with a strobe light.

Rines was angered by the publicity given the photographs, particularly in the British press, and had asked that the description of the slide shown Wednesday night not be made public.

A spokesman for Rines emphasized in a telephone interview that Rines and other members of the Academy of Applied Science — the Boston group which undertook the Loch Ness photographic expedition — were leaving it up to the scientific community to determine exactly what the objects photographed are.

British naturalist Sir Peter Scott, who has seen the complete set of Rines pictures, announced in London on Monday the cancellation of the symposium of eminent scientists who were to examine the photos.

The decision, "in no sense reflects in the smallest degree on the nature of the evidence or the integrity of those who obtained it," said Scott, chancellor of Birmingham University.

Scott told reporters shortly after word of the photos leaked last month that the Rines photographs helped convince him the Loch Ness monster is a living prehistoric reptile which may be 40 feet long.

This week, Prof. Herbert J. Howe, a Purdue University paleontologist, said he believed the monster may be a prehistoric reptile dating 70 million years. He said the Rines photographs may reveal the monster is a plesiosaur or ichthyosaur, types of reptiles believed extinct for more than 50 million years.

Federal offices rocked by blasts

MIAMI (AP) — Guards were posted at all government buildings in Miami early today after four federal offices were rocked by bomb blasts Wednesday night, police said. One other bomb was defused.

No injuries were reported. Several officers narrowly escaped harm when one bomb, found during a city-wide search for other explosives after the first blast, went off before an attempt was made to dismantle it.

That blast was at a local Social Security office. It caused minor damage, mostly broken windows. Similar damage was reported at the local FBI headquarters and two post offices.

Police said they were searching for a man and woman seen speeding away from one of the post offices. But investigators said they had no idea who was responsible for the bombs.

Various Cuban exile groups have claimed responsibility for a number of bombings that have occurred in the Miami area in recent months.

By early today, however, no one had claimed responsibility for Wednesday's blasts, which came about a year after a similar wave of bombings. Those bombings, also unclaimed, were on the anniversary of the death of Cuban freedom-fighter Antonio Maceo on Dec. 7, 1898.

Officers said the first explosion Wednesday came at 8:18 p.m. when a small pipebomb went off outside a three-story building housing the Miami offices of the FBI and the Justice Department.

An FBI spokesman said several bureau employees were inside at the time. The bomb was set behind a newspaper rack outside the building's lobby.

Police Sgt. William Maltz characterized the device, made with a 2 1/4-inch galvanized steel pipe, as "a wake-up" bomb.

Ford reaffirms China policy

PEKING (AP) — President Ford wound up his trip to China today with news from the Chinese on seven Americans missing in action before and during the Vietnam war and a promise by him to normalize U.S.-Chinese relations.

All of the missing Americans are dead, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference, but the remains of two of them have been recovered. He said that the next of kin of all seven would be notified within the next 48 hours.

The Americans, presumably pilots or airmen, were missing over the last 10 years in or near China, he said.

The last full day of Ford's China visit was marked by a banquet toast in the Great Hall of the People during which the President not only promised to normalize relations but to agree to disagree on attitudes toward the Soviet Union.

Aside from the news concerning the missing Americans, no other major announcements or specific agreements were made.

Ford leaves China on Friday for Indonesia.

In his banquet toast, Ford reaffirmed to China's leaders that the United States is committed "to complete the normalization of relations" with China, but that both would pursue their policies guided by national interest.

China's acting premier, avoiding any reference to the touchy subject of U.S.-Soviet detente that he had attacked Monday, said that although Washington and Peking "share many problems" contacts between Ford and the Chinese leaders have helped "to increase mutual understanding."

Kissinger told the news conference that China had made clear that it would accept the Japanese model in concluding relations with the United States. The Japanese switched recognition from Taipei to Peking in 1972 but continued trade, economic and cultural contacts with Taipei.

Kissinger conceded that the Chinese-American views on Korea were not identical but that both understood the other's position and would "exercise restraint on the Korean peninsula."

Asked when he planned to go to Moscow, Kissinger said a final decision had not been made. But he made it clear he would probably go, and that he would know in the next week or so the date he would leave.

Ford has said he would not send Kissinger to Moscow unless there was a promise of progress on Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviets.

During the day Ford toured the summer palace, while Mrs. Ford and daughter Susan visited a carpet factory. The Chinese news agency Hsinhua said Susan also witnessed an operation performed under acupuncture anesthesia at a Peking hospital.

Levi criticizes past FBI actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unlike most of his predecessors, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi says he insists on supervising the FBI and is voicing criticism of the agency's past misdeeds.

Levi says his major effort to control FBI conduct lies in a comprehensive set of guidelines now being drafted to prevent future abuses such as those described to the Senate intelligence committee on Wednesday.

The FBI spied on newsmen, government officials and civil rights leaders under presidents of both parties and agents were used for political purposes as early as the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, witnesses told the committee.

Testimony during the past two weeks has included a flood of fresh details about FBI attempts to discredit the late Martin Luther King and other civil rights leaders, sow dissension among political activists and collect and spread derogatory information about politicians.

FBI officials have made only feeble attempts at a defense. They acknowledge there was no legal justification for many activities, but point out that past presidents and attorneys general must share the responsibility. They murmur "the times were different" in the 1960s when the FBI's disruptive tactics and political abuse peaked.

Levi also notes that concern about the sometimes violent civil rights and antiwar protests of the 1960s may have surpassed concern about individual rights to free speech and privacy.

But he frequently and publicly has labeled many FBI harassment tactics outrageous and some of them foolish. He said Wednesday the tactics used against King "come under the heading of outrageous."

No one in the FBI hierarchy has publicly endorsed that characterization.

Those officials who are considered most loyal to the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who presided over the harassment campaigns and political intelligence-gathering, have privately expressed dismay at Levi's remarks.

Besides the public criticism, Levi says he has demonstrated his effort to control the direction of the FBI by ordering a Justice Department committee, which includes an FBI representative, to develop guidelines limiting domestic intelligence-gathering and file-keeping operations.

Election canvas completed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Final results of the 1975 general election were certified Wednesday by the secretary of state.

The official count added several thousand votes to unofficial tallies on election night. However, it did not alter the final results.

The final count showed the governor's four-point economic package being defeated at the polls. Proposed constitutional amendments to alter the tax valuation of recreational land and to allow state aid to railroads also were rejected.

The amendments passed where two proposals by the secretary of state to simplify the task of holding elections and one proposed by the legislature to legalize charitable bingo.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Nellie L. Gilmore

Mrs. Nellie L. Gilmore, 74, of 330 Rose Ave., died at 8 a.m. Thursday in Fayette Memorial Hospital, where she had been a patient 10 days. She had been ill for the past three weeks.

Born in Jackson County, Mrs. Gilmore had spent most of her life in Washington C.H. She was a member of the Washington Avenue House of Prayer. Her husband, Oat Gilmore, died in 1971.

She is survived by two sons, Jess Gilmore, Ohio 41-N, and Robert E. Gilmore, Robinson Road; a daughter, Miss Ella Gilmore, at home; two grandchildren, Curtis Gilmore, of Galloway, Ohio, and Leslie Gilmore, of Frankfort; a great-grandson, Brian Gilmore; two brothers, John Morris, of Columbus, and James Morris, Fort Myers, Fla., and two sisters, Mrs. Stella Manns, 606 Forest St., and Mrs. Clara Stritenberger, 1154 Gregg St.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Washington Avenue House of Prayer with the Rev. Glenn Williams officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, Washington C.H., from 3 to 5 and 7 until 9 p.m. Friday, and until noon Saturday and then at the church until time of services.

Mrs. Georgia Curry

Mrs. Georgia Curry, 70, of 721 Columbus Ave., died at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday in Grady Memorial Hospital, Delaware, where she had been a patient four days. She had been ill for one year.

Born in Ross County, Mrs. Curry had resided in Fayette County her entire life. Her husband, William O. Curry Sr., died in 1968. A member of First Presbyterian Church, she was a former clerk at Lord's Dress Shop here.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Maynard (Mary) Denen of 128 E. Paint St., and Mrs. John (Irene) Boyer of Longview, Tex.; two sons, James E. Curry of Dayton, and William O. Curry Jr. of Ostrander; 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren; two brothers, Eldon Long of Richmond, Ind., and George Long Jr. of Beaver-creek; and two sisters, Mrs. Wanda Wemyss of Columbus and Mrs. Wilma Hidy of Jeffersonville. A brother, Wayne Long, and a sister, Mrs. Lawrence (Thelma) Robinett, preceded her in death.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Gerald Wheat officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 until 9 p.m. Friday.

MRS. LAWRENCE ROBINETT — Services for Mrs. Thelma Robinett, 68, wife of Lawrence Robinett, 431 Rose Ave., were held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Charles Richmond officiating. Mrs. Robinett, a native of Fayette County, died Monday.

Dr. John G. Jordan sang two hymns. Palbearers for burial in Highlawn Memory Gardens were Gary, Steve and Randy Long, Kirby and John Hidy and Robert Crabtree.

Wholesale prices stable in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seasonally adjusted wholesale prices showed no change in November, the government reported today, signalling an easing in inflationary pressures.

The Labor Department reported that prices actually fell by four-tenths of a per cent during November, but that after adjustment for seasonal variations the wholesale price index was flat.

The easing in inflationary pressure follows the biggest increase in wholesale prices of the year in October, when the index jumped 1.8 per cent after seasonal adjustment.

The November report marked the smallest variation in wholesale prices since they declined by one-tenth of a per cent in June.

The stable performance means the index is now 3.7 per cent ahead of where it was a year ago. This is the smallest 12-month climb since the year ending in April 1972 and is a sharp

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials are concerned that Russia may be trying to develop devices to blind American satellites guarding against a surprise missile attack.

According to one intelligence report, a U.S. early warning satellite was illuminated by a strong infrared radiation source beamed from Western contrast to the 23.5 per cent by which wholesale prices had increased in the previous 12 months ending last November.

The Labor Department attributed November's price performance to lower food prices and a moderation of prices for industrial commodities, which had surged in October.

October's increase was the biggest since the same month a year ago and marked the fourth consecutive monthly increase this year.

It was powered largely by higher prices for automobiles, steel mill products and lumber and wood products — all of which remained stable or declined less than one-tenth of a per cent in November.

At the same time, prices for farm products dropped 1.2 per cent in November, their first decrease in three months and the largest since a 1.4 per cent dive in June.

Russia to blind U.S. satellites?

Russia on five occasions since Oct. 18. Two other satellites picked up infrared signals Nov. 17 and 18, the report said.

The early warning satellite, which was illuminated for up to four hours at a time, is in a synchronous orbit more than 22,000 miles in space, sources said. When in a synchronous orbit, a satellite travels at the same rate of speed as earth and thus appears stationary.

The satellite was not blinded, sources said, but intelligence analysts say the development suggests that ground-based lasers, if properly placed, might be used to neutralize the ability of U.S. satellites to detect missile launches from the Soviet Union.

Evidence that the Russians may be experimenting with such devices is still far from conclusive, the analysts say, but they described the illuminations of the U.S. satellites as potentially significant.

Analysts say they are satisfied the satellites did not pick up natural phenomena, glare of fires on the ground or cloud reflections.

Under the 1972 nuclear arms agreement between the United States and Russia, both sides are barred from interfering with "national means of detection," principally satellites.

In May 1972, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said, "There is no way they could use an antisatellite system without, in effect, causing us to abrogate the treaty."

However, Kissinger said the strategic arms limitation agreement "doesn't prohibit them from testing" an antisatellite system.

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., retired chief of naval operations and a possible senatorial candidate from Virginia, has accused the Soviets of cheating on that agreement, including interference with United States means of monitoring Soviet compliance.

Former Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger disputed Zumwalt's contention that Kissinger had been less than candid with President Ford on allegations of Soviet violations.

The State Department also denied Zumwalt's charge against Kissinger and said, "We have no evidence of violations" by the Russians.

Later, Zumwalt refused to retreat from his allegation.

Clearing skies today were to bring mild temperatures to the state, melting away the thin layer of snow that fell overnight in northern Ohio.

A warm front from middle Tennessee across Illinois to the Dakotas will move east across Ohio. Clouds were expected to clear out over northeastern Ohio this morning and mostly sunny skies were to bring afternoon temperatures generally in the 40s to the 50s in southern Ohio.

Mild air spreading in following the warm front will send temperatures into the 50s over Ohio Thursday and readings may top the 60-degree mark in the south.

A chance of showers Saturday, changing to snow flurries Sunday and Monday. Highs Saturday in the 50s, dropping to the 30s Sunday and Monday. Lows in the 40s Saturday morning, cooling to the 20s Sunday and Monday.

Hijackers

Dutch authorities brought in Johan Alvares Manusama, self-proclaimed leader of the 40,000 South Moluccans living in Holland, to speak with the gunmen. But officials said his 15-minute conversation with two of the young men produced no results.

A spokesman for the South Moluccan youth organization said the hijacking was spurred by recent arrests in Indonesia of South Moluccan militants and was intended to draw attention to the plight of South Moluccans living in Holland.

The South Moluccas, also known as the Spice islands, are between the Celebes and New Guinea and were the scene of an unsuccessful revolt in 1950 against Indonesia.

Doctor strike pinches Britain

These were just a few of the incidents Wednesday as Britain's National Health Service, the state-run system of socialized medicine, struggled with a week-old slowdown by half the service's 19,000 junior hospital doctors refusing to work more than a basic 40-hour week.

The junior doctors, backbone of the hospital staffs, are protesting the Labor government's new pay contract. They claim that although it means they get overtime pay after 44 hours instead of 80, it provides no pay increase, and the overtime payments are spread so thin many of them actually lose money.

Some 5,000 of the 11,000 specialists who work in both the health service hospitals and private practice have also curtailed their hospital activity by handling only emergencies. They are supporting the younger doctors and pressing their own fight against the government's plans to phase out private medicine.

Stock list sags again

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices sagged again in the stock market today despite the government's report of an improved wholesale price picture last month.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.31 at 822.18 on top of a 35.18-point slide over the three preceding sessions. Losers outpaced gainers by close to a 2-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Schering-Plough was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 53 1/4.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index dropped .26 to 45.99, and the American Stock Exchange market value index showed a .39 decline at 82.34.

Imperial Oil topped the active list on the Amex, off 1/4 at 23.

Tax sharing action pushed

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The National League of Cities is prepared to ask Congress to waive its new budget procedures in order to re-enact general revenue-sharing quickly next year.

Meantime, a Dallas City Councilwoman, Rose Renfro, intended to try today to get the nation's largest organization of urban officials to take its first public stand on school busing. Mrs. Renfro, who is attending her first national conference of urban officials, said she would offer a resolution to put the city executives on record as favoring a constitutional amendment to ban busing to achieve school desegregation.

The busing stand and the revenue-sharing proposal are among the policy resolutions being voted on today as the 3,000 delegates conclude their convention work.

As the busing issue has developed over the last half decade, city officials at such conventions have repeatedly refused to deal with it and leaders among the mayors here said they thought it unlikely that Mrs. Renfro would be successful.

The revenue-sharing resolution was expected to win overwhelming approval. The mayors have made renewal of the five-year $30-billion program their top legislative priority. They are backing President Ford's proposal to extend the program for 5 1/2 years past its expiration at the end of 1976.

Crowded docket not excuse for trial delay, court rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that a crowded trial docket is not a sufficient reason in itself to delay criminal trials.

The court in a 7-0 decision overturned the conviction of a man who was not brought to trial on a drunken driving charge within the 90-day limit set by law.

The Supreme Court said allowing the excuse of crowded trial dockets would undercut the intentions of the General Assembly in enacting time limits for trials.

The case involved Jay R. Pudlock, who was arrested on Jan. 9, 1974, and demanded a jury trial on the charge. When the trial date had not been set by May 31, his lawyer asked the charges be dropped.

The trial judge refused, saying that "the physical impossibility of bringing this case to trial prior to this date constitutes a 'reasonable continuance.'"

Pudlock was tried and found guilty in late June.

In its unanimous opinion, the court said there may be some cases in which docket congestion would be a valid grounds for going beyond the limits.

But the court said in general "practices which undercut the im-

Wholesale prices stable in November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seasonally adjusted wholesale prices showed no change in November, the government reported today, signalling an easing in inflationary pressures.

The Labor Department reported that prices actually fell by four-tenths of a per cent during November, but that after adjustment for seasonal variations the wholesale price index was flat.

The easing in inflationary pressure follows the biggest increase in wholesale prices of the year in October, when the index jumped 1.8 per cent after seasonal adjustment.

The November report marked the smallest variation in wholesale prices since they declined by one-tenth of a per cent in June.

The stable performance means the index is now 3.7 per cent ahead of where it was a year ago. This is the smallest 12-month climb since the year ending in April 1972 and is a sharp

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials are concerned that Russia may be trying to develop devices to blind American satellites guarding against a surprise missile attack.

According to one intelligence report, a U.S. early warning satellite was illuminated by a strong infrared radiation source beamed from Western contrast to the 23.5 per cent by which wholesale prices had increased in the previous 12 months ending last November.

The Labor Department attributed November's price performance to lower food prices and a moderation of prices for industrial commodities, which had surged in October.

October's increase was the biggest since the same month a year ago and marked the fourth consecutive monthly increase this year.

It was powered largely by higher prices for automobiles, steel mill products and lumber and wood products — all of which remained stable or declined less than one-tenth of a per cent in November.

At the same time, prices for farm products dropped 1.2 per cent in November, their first decrease in three months and the largest since a 1.4 per cent dive in June.

Russia to blind U.S. satellites?

Russia on five occasions since Oct. 18. Two other satellites picked up infrared signals Nov. 17 and 18, the report said.

The early warning satellite, which was illuminated for up to four hours at a time, is in a synchronous orbit more than 22,000 miles in space, sources said. When in a synchronous orbit, a satellite travels at the same rate of speed as earth and thus appears stationary.

The satellite was not blinded, sources said, but intelligence analysts say the development suggests that ground-based lasers, if properly placed, might be used to neutralize the ability of U.S. satellites to detect missile launchings from the Soviet Union.

Evidence that the Russians may be experimenting with such devices is still far from conclusive, the analysts say, but they described the illuminations of the U.S. satellites as potentially significant.

Analysts say they are satisfied the satellites did not pick up natural phenomena, glare of fires on the ground or cloud reflections. Under the 1972 nuclear arms agreement between the United States and Russia, both sides are barred from interfering with "national means of detection," principally satellites.

In May 1972, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said, "There is no way they could use an antisatellite system without, in effect, causing us to abrogate the treaty."

However, Kissinger said the strategic arms limitation agreement "doesn't prohibit them from testing" an antisatellite system.

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., retired chief of naval operations and a possible senatorial candidate from Virginia, has accused the Soviets of cheating on that agreement, including interference with United States means of monitoring Soviet compliance.

Former Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger disputed Zumwalt's contention that Kissinger had been less than candid with President Ford on allegations of Soviet violations.

The State Department also denied Zumwalt's charge against Kissinger and said, "We have no evidence of violations" by the Russians.

Later, Zumwalt refused to retreat from his allegation.

By The Associated Press
Clearing skies today were to bring mild temperatures to the state, melting away the thin layer of snow that fell overnight in northern Ohio.

A warm front from middle Tennessee across Illinois to the Dakotas will move east across Ohio. Clouds were expected to clear out over northeastern Ohio this morning and mostly sunny skies were to bring afternoon temperatures generally in the 40s to the 50s in southern Ohio.

Mild air spreading in following the warm front will send temperatures into the 50s over Ohio Thursday and readings may top the 60-degree mark in the south.

A chance of showers Saturday, changing to snow flurries Sunday and Monday. Highs Saturday in the 50s, dropping to the 30s Sunday and Monday. Lows in the 40s Saturday morning, cooling to the 20s Sunday and Monday.

Hijackers

Dutch authorities brought in Johan Alvares Manusama, self-proclaimed leader of the 40,000 South Moluccans living in Holland, to speak with the gunmen. But officials said his 15-minute conversation with two of the young men produced no results.

A spokesman for the South Moluccan youth organization said the hijacking was spurred by recent arrests in Indonesia of South Moluccan militants and was intended to draw attention to the plight of South Moluccans living in Holland.

The South Moluccas, also known as the Spice islands, are between the Celebes and New Guinea and were the scene of an unsuccessful revolt in 1950 against Indonesia.

Doctor strike pinches Britain

These were just a few of the incidents Wednesday as Britain's National Health Service, the state-run system of socialized medicine, struggled with a week-old slowdown by half the service's 19,000 junior hospital doctors refusing to work more than a basic 40-hour week.

The junior doctors, backbone of the hospital staffs, are protesting the Labor government's new pay contract. They claim that although it means they get overtime pay after 44 hours instead of 80, it provides no pay increase, and the overtime payments are spread so thin many of them actually lose money.

Some 5,000 of the 11,000 specialists who work in both the health service hospitals and private practice have also curtailed their hospital activity by handling only emergencies. They are supporting the younger doctors and pressing their own fight against the government's plans to phase out private medicine.

Crowded docket not excuse for trial delay, court rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that a crowded trial docket is not a sufficient reason in itself to delay criminal trials.

The court in a 7-0 decision overturned the conviction of a man who was not brought to trial on a drunken driving charge within the 90-day limit set by law.

The Supreme Court said allowing the excuse of crowded trial dockets would undercut the intentions of the General Assembly in enacting time limits for trials.

The case involved Jay R. Pudlock, who was arrested on Jan. 9, 1974, and demanded a jury trial on the charge. When the trial date had not been set by May 31, his lawyer asked the charges be dropped.

The trial judge refused, saying that "the physical impossibility of bringing this case to trial prior to this date constitutes a 'reasonable continuance.'"

Pudlock was tried and found guilty in late June.

In its unanimous opinion, the court said there may be some cases in which docket congestion would be a valid grounds for going beyond the limits.

But the court said in general "practices which undercut the im-

"Can't get it out of my system..."

Music in blood to stay

Editor's Note: The following story is about a local boy making good. Eddie Adams, 28, has just cut a record destined for the charts entitled, "Every Woman in the World," a song written by Dave Mason. This is not an overnight success story. He's had his ups and downs in the musical entertainment business all his life. This story draws an unplanned parallel with Don Riber's column this week on success. The opportunity to hear Eddie Adams, live and in person, will present itself this Saturday evening (Dec. 6) at the Jeffersonville Inn in Jeffersonville. Call the Inn for reservations and give him some local support. He's worth it!

Like the circus employee who finds it impossible to get the sawdust out of his veins and keeps returning to the three rings, Eddie Adams can't get the music out of his heart and returns to take that step up onto the bandstand in front of a microphone no matter what other vocation he attempts. Now Adams has given up his personal battle with fate and decided he's either going to make it in music or else.

And he's making it! A song he released Nov. 17 entitled "Every Woman in the World" (written by Dave Mason) is climbing on the charts and ready to enter the Billboard magazine country and western countdown.

I had the opportunity to talk with Adams Tuesday evening and the first thing which struck me about the 28-year-old mustached singer was his easy-going manner.

"Hey, it's the common people who can really make you or break you," Adams stated and continued, "and I never want to get so big and famous that I forget a friend or fail to sign an autograph or shake a hand because those things are outshined by the glitter of success."

Adams attempted to put his life in some sort of chronology from his musical beginnings to where he is now. He was born and raised in this area. His parents, Estel and Vera Adams and his Uncle Cecil Adams still live on Rowe-Ging Road. These people laid Adams' musical foundation.

"I'll never forget the fun the family had on Sundays when I was a kid. Dad played fiddle and we sang and jammed with anyone dropping over for a visit. As I grew I became more and more interested in music and started buying Johnny Paycheck's albums and imitating him. Two of my first cousins, Don and Gary Adams, are with Paycheck's group. At the age of 14, I'd sneak into Club 22 and hide in the back where I could watch the band and yet remain unnoticed. Then around 2 a.m., just before closing, they'd let me come up on the stage and sing a song; usually Merle Haggard's 'Sing a Sad Song.' That was a thrill I'll never forget!" Adams exclaimed.

After graduation from Miami Trace High School in 1965, Adams started headlining at the Paint Valley Jamboree in Bainbridge on Saturday nights and getting gigs in Columbus singing and playing bass guitar which he picked up and mastered along with six-string guitar.

"I did the Paint Valley Jamboree thing for a year and worked occasionally with Paycheck. Then my big break came when a guy known as Little Jimmy Dickens, who had a hit entitled 'May the Bird of Paradise Fly Up Your Nose,' heard me with Paycheck and liked my voice. Dickens was noted for discovering talent such as Marty Robbins, Lefty Frizzell and Buddy Emmons and placed a call to Columbia Records. The market was beginning to crowd at this time and Columbia, for the first time ever, questioned him and asked for a demo tape. Then any opportunity there was blew completely out the window when Uncle Sam wrote me a letter and stated he needed my voice more. Two years in the army in Viet Nam followed," Adams explained.

When Adams was discharged from the service in 1968, he was shocked to discover so many musical changes had taken place back home in the states during his absence.

"I didn't know who to contact or what to do when I got back. My friends had gone in several different directions and I was lost. I finally took a job at Armco, but after nine months steel guitars were taking a higher priority than Armco Steel and I left. I went home and blew the dust off my guitar and got together a band called 'Eddie Adams and the Nashville Sound.' Things started moving again — we had a female vocalist by the name of Vicky Hensley who was filled with talent and we landed a job at the Crystal Pistol in Fairborn which lasted 52 weeks," Adams reminisced.

Adams lit a cigarette and sipped at a beer as he revealed what nightclub life was all about.

"You burn out man, you just burn out!" he exclaimed and continued, "band members usually get drinks for free, so you drink. Your hours are crazy — I remember playing an engagement at a place called the Vegas

EDDIE ADAMS — Now appearing this Saturday evening at the Jeffersonville Inn in Jeffersonville, Ohio. Call for reservations.

Club in Dayton where we did a 9 p.m. til 2 a.m. gig on weekdays and a 9 p.m. til 6 a.m. gig on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. When you aren't playing, you're listening to other people play, getting ideas from albums and making vain attempts at getting some rest. Finally I had to rest and take the necessary time to meet some new people and learn some new things. I was stagnating and had to get out of the rut I was in."

Adams took a job through a Dayton job placement agency working at an animal clinic as an assistant veterinarian — a job which he still has.

"Then one day I was rapping with a barber in Dayton named Randy Allen while getting a haircut and all of a sudden he wants to hear me sing, likes it and becomes my manager. We then recorded the Dave Mason song 'Every Woman in the World' and started flooding the market with the song," Adams said.

When asked why a song by Mason who is noted for hard rock, Adams smiled and replied, "That's an interesting story. I was at a friend's home one evening and we were discussing music and listening to albums. We went through about six different albums and then he dug out Dave Mason and this song comes on which knocks me out of my seat! I made my friend play the particular cut which blew me away, 'Every Woman in the World,' so many times he finally gave me the album and threw me out," Adams mused.

Adams was sold on doing the song and he and Randy arranged the cutting of a demo tape at Artist Studio in Cincinnati where a former band member of Adams' group, Junior Bennett, was working as a recording engineer.

"Junior is a genius! He played the violin part on the tape, overdubbing the part into 16 violins and his wife, Una, did the backup vocals," Adams complimented.

The next stop was Nashville, with demo tape in hand, where the song was favorably received by an independent recording company called Trojan which agreed to make the wax. So, with stacks of 45 rpm records in his car, suitcase and pockets, Adams started distributing to radio stations, fellow musicians and pretty much anyone who showed an interest in listening and not using the disc as a frisbee.

"The response has been fantastic! Adams screamed gleefully. Billboard bases its ratings on the listener response of 73 stations but you only have to carry 24 and since the record's release two weeks ago, I have 14 already! I have to gloat a little," Adams continued, "radio station WAVI in Dayton actually interrupted its all talk-show format to play my record and the guy who did it, Brad Clay, is a professed hater of country music, but he dug my disc!"

As for the future, Adams plans on getting a small band together and doing some touring in Texas and the local tri-state area, has hopes of appearing on the Bob Braun Show and of course plans on many more recording dates. He has many people believing in his talent and backing him, including the writer of his song, Dave Mason himself. Adams said he attended the Dave Mason and The Beach Boys concert at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati two weeks ago and after meeting Mason backstage, played his record for him. "Mason just looked at me and said 'You're the answer to a prayer I'm had because I love that song so much and I can't sell it because it isn't geared to the audience I've established myself with. I would like to see it go and you're the man to take it.' I was in shock I was so happy!" Adams beamed.

In conclusion of our talk, I asked Adams where he thought today's music was heading. He commented that jazz will finally come into its own and there are many signs of this already. Then he revealed an interesting thought. He believes radio will loosen its format in the future and drop all labels: rock, country, blues, jazz and just play "music" for music's sake. If and when this comes, the music of Eddie Adams should definitely be included!

B.B. KING

B.B. King was born Riley B. King on a cotton plantation near the Mississippi Delta town of Indianola fifty years ago. His parents separated when he was four and he was left to make his own way in the world after his mother passed away by working for a tenant farmer in the Mississippi hill country. At fourteen he was reunited with his father and brought back to Indianola, where he was required to walk some ten miles daily to attend a one-room school at which a lone instructor presided over eighty-six pupils.

Just about the sole redeeming feature of his adolescence in Indianola was the fact that his uncle, Booker T. Washington White, frequently accompanied himself on guitar when he preached at the local church. Intrigued, young Riley somehow managed to save the eight dollars needed to purchase his own guitar through the Sears catalogue, and was soon playing himself. Although spiritual music as the only music he was allowed to play at home, he quickly became so adept at the blues he was able to earn what seemed at the time to be vast sums of money performing this music on the streetcorners of neighboring towns.

In 1947 he hitch-hiked north to Memphis to live with his cousin, Bukka White, himself a blues musician of considerable note. Through an old musician friend from Indianola he was able to obtain a job performing five nights a week at the 16th Street Grill. The management of WDIA, the local black radio station, was so impressed with the young musician that they hired him to sing patent-medicine commercials, which he did well enough to be promoted in short order to the position of performing disc-jockey. To commemorate his promotion he was nicknamed "The Beale St. Blues Boy," after the club-crowded street on which he now did most of his live performing, but the name was soon shortened simply to "B.B."

He made his first record, for the RPM label, in 1949. The following year his "Three O'Clock Blues" attained the number-one position on the national R&B charts, and he left WDIA to accept bookings all over the country.

Little could he have imagined that he'd play some 300 chitlin circuit gigs annually for nearly eighteen years before achieving the stature to which his extraordinary artistry entitled him: not until the late '60's, when such rock guitar heroes as Eric Clapton and Mike Bloomfield acknowledged his enormous influence would a truly mass audience "discover" this most brilliant practitioner of the blues.

When the pop audience did discover him, through, it was with a vengeance: during 1968 he was invited to perform at virtually every major college in the country, as well as at a number of important pop festivals all over North America. The following year he travelled to Europe, where he performed in France, Germany, Switzerland, Denmark, and Sweden after an ecstatically-applauded tour-opening concert at London's Royal Albert Hall.

On returning to America he was invited to join the Rolling Stones tour, in whose wake he gained massive television exposure, on the Tonight, Dick Cavett, David Frost, and Della Reese Shows, to name but a few. His popularity continued to escalate at an astonishing rate through the opening months of the new decade, as he followed a spectacularly successful two-week booking at Las Vegas's Caesar Palace with SRO appearance at Carnegie Hall and the prestigious Royal Box of New York City's Americana Hotel. Coincidentally he was named Guitar Player magazine's Blues Guitarist of the Year, as well as Top Blues Artist in Downbeat's International Critics' Poll.

The following year saw nothing even faintly resembling a dimming of his newly-attained stardom. Quite to the contrary, he won that most coveted of music industry accolades, the Grammy, in 1971 for his first million-selling single, "The Thrill Is Gone."

Today, four years later, he remains indisputably the world's premier blues artist, in terms of both critical admiration and mass acclaim. Just as everyone seems to agree no one can sing or play a blues tune quite as soulfully as B.B. King, everyone concurs as well that the stardom that took so long to happen couldn't possibly have happened to a nicer guy, for through both hard, dues-paying times and salad days, B.B. King has always remained a gentleman of unimpeachable dignity, integrity, and humility. Truly, his excellence is all-pervasive.

Behind the scenes

Recently I was asked the proverbial question: "How do you get started in the entertainment world?" While there is no set answer to give any aspiring young person, there is one that I think works whether it is the entertainment, legal, medical or any profession. That answer is "work, study, devotion, sacrifice and above all discipline!" It is the lack of these prerequisites that assures you of failure or the complete adherence to them that brings success.

One example of success that has always impressed me was a group of high school students and teachers who have been seen all over the world, called the "The Young Americans."

"The Young Americans" have appeared in a movie made about them, with Bing Crosby, Perry Como, Johnny Mathis, Johnny Carson and in their own TV spectacles. The state department helped arrange and send them on a world tour. The president even requested them to perform at the White House and at Lincoln Center.

The group was started by a young high school teacher, Milton Anderson, who was from the Cincinnati area. He was a public school music teacher who had moved to Southern California and brought the idea of forming a group that could sing, dance, entertain and guest star when ever the call came for youth to entertain. He formed the original group of 36 teenagers that would rehearse, learn and work at entertaining to represent the best of all the young people thus giving them an opportunity to be educated the way vaudeville and road shows had given Jack Benny, Milton Berle, George Burns, Gracie Allen and the countless other personalities a chance to perform and get started.

For months they worked after school and nights to perfect their singing and add the art of dancing and playing musical instruments (mostly guitars and drums.)

We were looking for someone to appear at the Greek Theater with Johnny Mathis at the time for at least a week's engagement and after seeing them rehearse they were chosen. It was a big risk, but Johnny Mathis was willing to give them their first big break.

Jantzen, the swim suit and sweater company came to the rescue of helping to costume them in red sweaters and white skirts and pants, a shoe company furnished white shoes and parents furnished blue dresses and skirts with white shirts for all. Special musical arrangements were made by Allyn Ferguson, Johnny Mathis' musical conductor. The American Guild of Variety Artists was the union which club and theatrical performers must belong to and after long negotiations with them we were able to persuade them we would pay all the guarantees without the teenagers actually having to become members of the union.

The reviews of that first appearance are still outstanding. This is a patriotic local show. Of course there were literally thousands of obstacles to overcome for there were chaperones needed and transportation, extra music, costumes, hotel reservations, insurance and performing rights to abide by and their public school education time when fall came.

They were so good that Rojon Production Company took on all the obstacles and overcame them. Rojon Productions consisted of three officers Johnny Mathis, president; Ed Blau, lawyer and secretary; and myself as vice president and executive producer plus controller or treasurer, secretary and publicist. We divided the 36 member group into two of 18 each and ventured on a tour of the United States which meant going to 56 cities in just 58 days because the payroll and transportation costs would be tremendous and we had guaranteed the union the first and last weeks complete salaries paid in advance and all transportation and hotel costs to not only the 18 singers and dancers but a production manager, conductor, 21 teenage musicians that formed a complete orchestra, a sound man, a wardrobe man, (he was responsible for all costumes and the cleaning and union regulations), program salesman, two travel busses, a private car and one truck for the harp and all musical instruments with our own lights, curtains, switchboard and first aid kit!

Now it is a union regulation not to make anyone appear for a performance or travel more than 499 miles in any 24 hour period and not closer than 50 miles within 24 hours and all transportation must be with complete toilet facilities and rest periods with no more than eight hours between travel segments. Oh yes, we also had to furnish qualified chaperones for the 39 teenagers and comply with all state, federal, union, local and interstate laws.

The tour stretched from California to Edmonton Canada, to Boston, New York, Miami, Houston and back to California. It lasted not just 58 days, but stretched into a full year with periodic changes in the Young Americans personnel. Ruth Lyons had room for only four of them to appear with Johnny on her show, but we were in Cincinnati one night and at Capitol University the next night and then back to Ohio University the next night. It was mid-winter part of the time and snowbound cars and busses had to be overcome quite often with the rental of small private planes (sometimes without heaters and with leaky doors.)

In Omaha we were scheduled for an appearance with one full day to travel from Moorehead University in Minnesota. The busses became snowbound in the middle of the night and we finally found a doctor and nurse to go out in a snowplow to reach the bus in time to give every one of the sixty some people a shot of penicillin just in case anyone would catch a cold and not be ready to perform for the next show. The choreographer had to be flown from Los Angeles once a week to wherever the group was appearing to check on the dances and once every two weeks Milton Anderson left his high school teaching job in Southern California to fly out for one day to rehearse and train any replacements that were necessary.

The Young Americans made it! The results of that year enabled many of the budding stars to get their training and their start. In fact the young lady who plays Carol Burnett's sister in the TV show was a member of that original Young American group! There are many others I often see in movies and TV shows and some that are entertaining in quite unusual places. Gene and Jane Heath took me to see a singing duo at the Play Boy Club in Cincinnati several years ago and there were Pat and Emmitt Cash who also were members of that first Young Americans group. All eight members of "Our Young Generation" that toured Korea, Brazil, Japan, Australia, the Philippines, Bankok, England, Spain, Italy, Sweden, France, Germany, Mexico and Canada with us were all graduates of the original Young Americans. Milton Anderson, the high school music teacher had made his dream and the aspirations of several hundred teenagers all come true. The problems were overcome and the standing ovations the group received were the rewards for all the chaperones and production people that helped teenagers get started.

Mishap postp ones tour

NEW YORK (AP) — The two-month tour of Led Zeppelin in the United States has been postponed because of an August auto accident on the Greek island of Rhodes in which the group's lead singer, Robert Plant, and members of his family were injured.

A member of the London staff of Swan Song, Led Zeppelin's record company, flew to Rhodes in a chartered jet equipped with stretchers, blood plasma and two British doctors.

Plant's injuries are multiple fractures of the ankle and elbow. His wife, Maureen, had concussions and a leg broken in several places, four fractures of the pelvis and facial lacerations. Plant's son, Karac, 4, has a broken leg and cuts and bruises. His daughter, Carmen, 7, has a broken wrist and cuts and bruises.

An October tour of the Far East also has been postponed. A decision has not yet been made about the November tour of Europe and December tour of Japan.

Sign with ABC records

Jon Mark and Johnny Almond, founders of the famed Mark-Almond Band, were signed by ABC Records worldwide and their reunion LP will be produced by Roy Halee.

Roy Halee, newly signed staff producer, will also be making his ABC Records debut with the Mark-Almond project. Halee is famous for his engineering and production of Simon and Garfunkel, Blood, Sweat and Tears, and Laura Nyron, among many others. He also was responsible for Jon Mark's solo outing, "Song for a Friend."

Jon Mark got his music business start working side by side with Mick Jagger. Co-producer with Jagger of Marianne Faithful's early albums, Jon for two years wrote for Faithful and accompanied her on the road. He also worked with Alun Davies, now guitarist for Cat Stevens, in a band called "Sweet Thursday" that was a cult favorite and included famed keyboard session ace Nicky Hopkins.

Johnny Almond at the time was one of England's top sessionmen supplying his sax sounds to some of London's major bands. When John Mayall formed his innovative drummerless blues band for Turning Point he called on Mark and Almond and their partnership began.

Returned from England, Mark and Almond are planning a major tour for March 1976. They are managed by Art Linson.

Alpha CCL members donate gifts to Progressive School

Alpha Child Conservation League members held their annual Christmas dinner-party at the Terrace Lounge Wednesday evening. Guests were their husbands, or friends. Each member brought a gift for a student of the Fayette Progressive School in lieu of a gift exchange.

Large holiday wreaths in gold and blue were on the walls of the party room, and a lighted Christmas tree was in full view. All were seated at long tables which were enhanced with hurricane lamps made from old-fashioned tin cups painted black with red ribbon, with lighted candles made by Mrs. Harold Foster, and miniature red and green knitted bells, made by Mrs. H.T. Hoffman, committee members. Candy canes were also at each place setting.

Mrs. Russell McCoy gave the invocation preceding the dinner. The entertainment was provided by Miss Lynne Acton, who sang "Silver Bells," "O Holy Night," "Have a Jolly Holly Christmas," and "Go Tell it to the Mountain." She accompanied herself on the guitar. The granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Waters Sr., Mrs. Waters is a member of the league.

Mrs. Russell Liston, president, conducted the meeting, and each member introduced her guest. Mrs. Dwight Morner was also welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Charles Hurtt, secretary, announced the State CCL Spring Conference for April 3, and also read other correspondence concerning the CCL scholarships, etc. As members arrived, they placed Christmas gifts under the lighted Christmas tree to be given to the Fayette County Progressive School, and also a gift for their guest. The league will not prepare a Christmas basket this year.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Robert Climer, Mrs. McCoy and Mrs. William Clarke.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Morner, Mr. and Mrs. William Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Hurtt, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Alkire, Mr. and Mrs. Climer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fries, Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Robert Helfrich, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dill, Mr. and Mrs.

McCoy, Ronnie McCoy, Miss Acton, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Waters Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Liston, Mr. and Mrs. George Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Mary Crago and Dr. Mike Mikitka, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warner and Mr. and Mrs. William Clarke.

The January meeting will take place in the home of Mrs. Merrill Lynch.

Alpha Theta members receive charm awards

The Alpha Theta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met in the home of Mrs. Dick Hill for a business and social evening. Mrs. Ray Loudner was inducted as social chairman in a brief ceremony. Also receiving Agape charms for pledging new members were Mrs. Richard Wood, Mrs. Jim Oughterson and Mrs. Don Gibbs.

Plans were discussed for the dance to be held Jan. 24 in Mahan Hall with WLW radio personality disc jockey Joe Kelly as master of ceremonies.

A silent auction was held after the meeting with all proceeds going towards a Christmas basket to be given to a deserving family.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes to Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Oughterson, Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Loudner, Mrs. Ron Ratliff, Mrs. Ron Warner, Mrs. John Gruber, Mrs. Jack Moats, Mrs. Charles McIlvaine, Mrs. Fred Zechman, Mrs. Jack Merriman, Mrs. Clyde Cramer, Mrs. John Bernard, Mrs. Joan Whissler, Mrs. Bill Marting, and Mrs. Jane Beatty, a guest.

serving as commander of Capital City Barracks, 461, Veterans of World War I in Columbus.

There were approximately 40 veterans and Auxiliary members attending. At the time of death, Mr. Stone, was also serving as commander of Capital City Barracks 461, Veterans of World War I in Columbus.

Methodist sets program

The "Good News Singers" will perform at the Maple Grove United Methodist Church, near Dogtown, on Saturday, Dec. 6. A Christmas concert will be presented at 7 p.m., and will feature the singing talents of the thirteen members, accompanied by guitar and piano.

The group was formed about a year ago, and has visited numerous churches in the area. Advisor Jacquie Craven, 2014 White Rd., is the chief organizer for the Washington C.H. singers.

Martha Guild holds meeting

The Martha Guild of First Christian Church met at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. James Garringer. Devotions were presented by Miss Margaret Gibson, using the title - "Songs to Sing." Reports were given.

The hostess served refreshments at the close of the meeting. A gift exchange followed.

Dear Abby: 6-foot gal looks from wrong vantage point

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've read you for years but this is the first time I've ever written.

I am a 24-year-old girl who is average in every way except one: I stand 6 feet in my stocking feet!

I have many girl friends and some fellows who are friendly, but men don't consider me a serious candidate for a romantic partner. Even guys who are taller than I am treat me like I'm another guy.

When I meet new people, I feel that they accept me until I stand up and they see how tall I am.

Abby, I know I'm attractive and have a pleasing personality, but I'm getting nowhere.

I am becoming resentful and bitter, and don't know what to do about it.

TOO TALL

DEAR TALL: You can turn what you think is a liability into an asset. But first you must start with the top of your lovely height-your mind-because that's where the problem is.

Your self-image is negative, and it reflects in your attitude toward other people.

When you walk in a room, walk tall and smile. Don't grab the nearest chair. Stand and greet everyone you meet with dignity and grace. Whatever you do, don't slump!

When you sit, sit tall and gracefully with your long legs together.

And don't come on too strong with men. Believe me, they'll notice you.

Wear tailored clothes, and don't be afraid to wear bright colors.

Forget your height and others will. You will be judged on how you treat people, not on how high you're stacked.

Now get going and just watch the effect you'll have on others.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of men who run ads in the classified section of a newspaper, reading: "Lonely gent (age, weight, height) wants to meet woman (age range usually much younger) for companionship, marriage, or..."

And what do you think of women who answer such ads?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: I think such men must be desperately lonely as well as incredibly foolish to risk possible involvement with some very creepy characters.

AND THE SAME GOES FOR WOMEN WHO WOULD ANSWER SUCH ADS.

DEAR ABBY: You asked if anyone has ever protested at the point in the marriage service when it says, "If any man can show just cause why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him speak now or forever hold his peace."

Yes, it happened several years ago, in Altadena, Calif., when a woman called out, "I protest!"

The Reverend Edward E. Hailwood, who was the rector of the St. Mark's Episcopal Church, did the only thing he could do. He halted the service and had the woman brought to him in the privacy of the sacristy and demanded her reasons.

"I protest in the name of the Father, The Son and the Holy Ghost," she said.

It was obvious that she was deranged, so she was taken out through a side door, and Father Hailwood returned to the church and continued with the wedding.

W.P. INFRESNO

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Home baking for the holidays

Good food is an important part of any holiday, but this is especially true of Christmas. Women who rely on the bakery or packaged mixes throughout the year turn to treasured recipes for home baking when this special season rolls around.

Our spirited Holiday Cake can be the finale for your Christmas Dinner. Super-moist and delicious, this lavish cake, soaked with a rum syrup, will win acclaim from the entire family.

No one will ever believe that this scrumptious cake is low in cholesterol and saturated fat, but it is! The secret ingredients that make the difference are Fleischmann's Corn Oil Margarine and Egg Beaters Cholesterol-free Egg Substitute. Sensible eating never tasted so good!

Decorated with red and green candied cherries, this Spirited Holiday Cake is dressed for the day, so show it off. Place on your sideboard or buffet surrounded with evergreens for a festive highlight to your dining room.

SPIRITED HOLIDAY CAKE

2 3/4 cups unsifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup (1 1/2 sticks) Fleischmann's Margarine
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
3/4 cups Egg Beaters Cholesterol-free Egg Substitute
1/2 cup skim milk
1/4 cup orange juice

1 cup chopped pecans Rum Syrup (recipe below)

Confectioners' Sugar Glaze (recipe below)
Red and green candied cherries
Combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt; set aside.

Cream together margarine, sugar and orange peel until fluffy. Gradually beat in Egg Beaters. Add flour mixture alternately with skim milk and orange juice, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Mix in pecans. Beat until well blended. Turn batter into a well greased and floured 10-inch tube pan. Bake at 350 degrees F. 50 minutes or until done. Before removing from pan immediately prick surface with a fork or cake tester. Pour warm Rum Syrup over cake. After syrup is absorbed, remove from pan and place on wire rack to cool.

When cake is completely cooled prepare Confectioner's Sugar Glaze. Pour and spread glaze over entire cake to form a smooth surface. Let dry for 10 minutes before decorating. Use red and green candied cherry pieces to make poinsettias and holy leaves. Makes one 10-inch cake.

RUM SYRUP: In a saucepan combine 1-3rd cup sugar and 1/4 cup water; bring to a boil. Remove from heat and stir in 1/4 cup orange juice and 2 tablespoons dark Jamaica rum.

CONFECTIONERS' SUGAR GLAZE: Combine 2 cups confectioners' sugar, 3 tablespoons warm skim milk and 1/4 teaspoons brandy extract in a bowl and beat until smooth.

Pythian Sisters honor Mrs. Cannon

Members of the Pythian Sisters of Jeffersonville met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Knox for the annual Christmas carry-in dinner and gift exchange. Mrs. Knox, president, dismissed with the regular business session.

Later in the evening, some friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. John Cannon came for a surprise miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Cannon. She received many lovely gifts.

Those present were Mrs. Mary L. Keller, Mrs. Clyde Rings, Mrs. Warren Armstrong, Mrs. Earl Glass, Mrs. Richard Craig, Mrs. Marie Thompson, Mrs. Imogene Mason, Mrs. Thelma Cline, Mrs. Charles Cline, Mrs. Donald Miller, Mrs. Lawrence Smith, Mrs. Deane Powell, Mrs. Arthur Schaefer, Mrs. Roger Haigler, Mrs. Lucille Hammond, Mrs. Glenn Hidy, Mr. Gilbert Biddle, Mrs. Joyce Hidy, Mr. Knox, Mrs. Carl Stackhouse, Mr. Miller and son, Lowell. They all signed a cheer card for Mrs. Ruth Williams, who is home from the hospital.

Hostesses were Mrs. Knox and Mrs. Stackhouse, and they were assisted in the serving of punch and cake by Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Thelma Cline.

Browning Club meets for holiday luncheon

Seventeen members of the Browning Club enjoyed a Christmas luncheon and fellowship at the Terrace Lounge on Tuesday noon. Mrs. E.F. Broberg gave the invocation and following the luncheon, Mrs. P.M. Cook, president, read a stanza from the poem, "Christmas Bells" by the late Mr. Frank Grubbs. Mrs. John P. Case led the group in the singing of Christmas carols.

Holiday greeting cards were signed to be sent to three members who were unable to be present. Then, members responded with personal memories of former Christmases which were amusing and interesting. Mrs. Cook welcomed a new member, Mrs. James E. Nilan, into the club, and thanked Mrs. O.C. Jenkins for the attractive table decorations.

Mrs. Wallace given surprise b'day party

Mrs. Dorothy Wallace at 411 N. North St., was pleasantly surprised when several friends arrived at her home for a surprise birthday party. Mrs. George Geesling baked a decorated birthday cake and Mrs. Wallace received several lovely birthday gifts.

Those present were Mrs. Gilbert Davis, Mrs. Ann Geesling, Mrs. Herman Day and daughter, Mrs. Herman Penrod, Mrs. Kenneth Knisley and daughter, Mrs. James Wagner, Mrs. Robert Shaffer, Mrs. Bill Dunn, Mrs. Wilbur Knisley, Mrs. Ed Whittington, Mrs. Clara Blessing, Mrs. Cora Scott and Mrs. James Perrill.

CARNIVAL QUEEN - Kristal Stratton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stratton of 910 S. North St., was named queen of the Eastside Carnival, when she was named top sales person by selling $150 worth of tickets for the carnival. She is a third-grade student at the school. Vernon Smith was second-place winner by selling a total of $100.25. Mrs. King's room sold a total $368 of tickets. Sean Arthur was winner of $150; Mrs. Joe Hatfield, $75, and Lisa Graham, $50. A total of $3,000 was made from the Carnival.

WHEATMEAL GEMS

Because they're small they need only brief baking.

3/4 cup whole bran cereal
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup yellow cornmeal
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 egg

Soak bran in milk until milk is absorbed. Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and cornmeal. Cream butter and sugar; beat in egg; stir in bran; add flour mixture and stir only until moistened. Spoon into buttered muffin-pan cups (1 1/4 inches across top and 3/4-inch deep), filling 3/4 full. Bake in a pre-heated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean - about 15 minutes. Serve at once with butter or margarine. Makes 24.

FAMILY DINNER

PARSNIP PATTIES

4 medium parsnips, about 3/4 pound
1 egg
1/4 cup flour
2 1/2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Salt and white pepper to taste

Pare parsnips and cut off a thin slice from stem and root ends; cut each parsnip in half. In a saucepan cover the parsnips with boiling water; boil, covered, until tender - 10 to 20 minutes; drain. Force parsnips through ricer or food mill so any woody residue may be discarded - there should be about 1 cup mashed parsnip. Add egg to mashed parsnip and with a sturdy fork beat until blended; beat in flour. In a 10-inch skillet melt 1 1/2 tablespoons of the butter; beat into the parsnip mixture along with salt and pepper. In the same skillet melt remaining 1 tablespoon butter; with a spoon drop parsnip mixture, in 8 even portions, into the skillet; fry over moderate heat, turning once, until cooked through and golden brown - about 5 minutes on each side. Makes 3 servings -

MEMO from Martie....

December 4, 1975

Dear Friends,

You know that the Martha Washington Shop designs displays for our windows with a spiritual theme each year at Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas. We feel that these special days call for more than a simple commercial display.

This year, to share the true Christmas spirit we're having

A CONTEST.

We want each of you to submit an idea for decorating our windows that best expresses A Spiritual Christmas.

The persons who offer the best ideas that we use will receive a very special Christmas gift from The Martha Washington Shop. So do stop in and visit us with your ideas and help make this Christmas more meaningful.

Yours, Martie

Dionne Warwick granted divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Dionne Warwick and husband Bill Elliott have been granted a divorce after 10 years of marriage.

Miss Warwick, 34, told Superior Court Judge Leopoldo Sanchez on Wednesday that her marriage had irreparably broken down.

Elliott, 41, a drummer and actor, filed the suit for dissolution of the marriage last June 3. Miss Warwick's manager, Paul Cantor, said Elliott is seeking $5,000 a month in support fees. He has already been paid $10,000 to cover various costs. In his suit he listed his income as $500 a month and hers as $100,000 a month.

A community property trial is expected to be held next year. Miss Warwick will have temporary custody of the couple's two sons, David, 6, and Damon, 2.

New Breman man OFBF president

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wallace Hirschfeld of New Bremen was elected Wednesday to his first full term as president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, a 64,000-member group representing farm interests.

The election occurred on the final day of the bureau's 57th annual meeting.

Hirschfeld, 52, was elected in March to fill the unexpired term of Leonard Schnell, who resigned.

Trustees elected or re-elected were Roger Suver, New Carlisle; Dale Cain, Belmont; Lawrence Baumann, Amherst; Arden Shisler, Dalton; Glenn Irwin, Marysville; Robert Hester, Trenton; and Martha Gearhart, Kingston.

Hitch-hiker

By SUE MOORE

Just a lonely hitch-hiking guy,
Hard up for luck, too big to cry.
Out on the road, too young to die.
Somebody send him home.

He thinks he's doing the thing that's smart,
But his feelings are tearing him apart.
An ordinary guy with a broken heart.
Somebody send him home.

He has a weariness in every bone,
He's wishing for company, cause he's all alone.
He doesn't know he's headed for a danger zone.
Somebody send him home.
His road is hard, and the way is long,
Looking for a place where he'll belong.
And knowing in his heart that he was wrong.
Somebody send him home.

Then came a shot in the night,
The hitch-hiking guy was gone without a fight.
He saw the darkness before the light.
Somebody send him home.

And so, it seems that now it's too late,
The hitch-hiking guy met his fate.
He died all alone, and full of hate.
Nobody sent him home.

ESSAY WINNER — Lucinda Graham, a senior at Washington Senior High School, recently was the recipient of a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. She was winner of the Uncle Sam Essay Contest sponsored by Fayette County Board of Realtors. The competition, which was between Miami Trace and WSHS students, ended Nov. 15. Lucinda, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham of 813 Clinton Ave., says she plans to use the money toward her future education. She is pictured with Jon Sauer, WSHS English teacher.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5

ARIES

(March 21 to April 21)

Mars, fairly favorable, promises a generally satisfactory day. Keep yourself in line and you will help others do likewise, insuring gains for all.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Not much planetary help here. In general, it would be better to stick to routine matters. Perhaps, too, to take a little time to make some long-range plans.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Your fine mind and keen perception should assist you in even the most difficult endeavors. If you don't stray off course, you can REALLY achieve now.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Mixed planetary influences. Be careful not to speak out of turn, and don't press too forcibly for what you want when a few well-chosen words could do the trick.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You could be making a big mistake if you lose control of emotions or become overly aggressive now. Take all situations in stride and problems will resolve themselves.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Watch trends; be guided by your innate sense of thoroughness and real needs. Don't let "outsiders" sway decisions, but do heed counsel from the trustworthy.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Be careful of the way in which you make your moves, whom you include in your plans. Wrong decisions could break your success pattern.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may encounter what seems to be undue opposition. Take whatever steps are necessary to overcome it, but do not mistake honest discussion for hostility.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Jupiter, favorable, now promises increasing gains. But some minor situations may have to be ironed out before you go ahead with long-range projects.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Generous influences now stimulate your initiative and ambitions. Gains indicated through new enterprises, properly handled dealings with superiors, others in authority.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

An auspicious period. If you cooperate smartly, you can make up for lost time and break through any barriers to new attainment. Romance highly favored.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Plan your schedule so as to allow for handling, not only essentials, but some unexpected new activities. Be realistic, too, do not confuse wishful thinking with "inspiration."

YOU BORN TODAY are a vigorous, often brilliant worker; an inspiring influence, with creative ability, and gifted along many other lines. You face reality sturdily and philosophically. You have all the qualities needed for top-flight success and happiness and, once on the right path, do not mind obstacles, regarding them as interesting challenges. Your best field is business — especially in its most active areas — but you could also become a fine lawyer, writer, physician, journalist, statesman or diplomat. You could also shine in the entertainment field or in the world of sports.

Counselors corner

"College Night," held at Washington Senior High School on November 17, was a worthwhile experience for those students and parents who attended.

The financial aids panel was composed of financial aids experts from Ohio State University, Ohio Northern University, and the Ohio Student Loan Commission. They explained how parents should fill out the P.C.S., O.I.G., and B.E.O.G. for financial aid in college expense. Students and parents were also able to visit with college admissions counselors from more than 50 colleges, technical, and business schools and pick up bulletins and fact sheets on the schools in which they were interested. More than 400 students and parents from Washington Senior High School, Miami Trace, and the other SCOL schools attended.

December is a month with emphasis on vocational search. Freshmen will meet with counselors to discuss the Ohio Vocational Interest Survey results and complete plans for their four-year high school schedule. Also, December 15-18 will see freshmen taking the G.A.T.B. aptitude test, with results being presented to them in early spring in terms of vocational aptitudes. Sophomores and juniors will be contacted concerning their continuing educational and vocational plans.

Seniors are reminded to pick up their B.E.O.G. and O.I.G. applications in the counselors' office this month. Counselors will announce over the P.A. when these applications arrive.

Probe fire at Kent Kove

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Flames that erupted in a downtown Kent basement lounge Wednesday night and spread rapidly through wooden beams to two other bars overhead apparently sprang from an overheated space heater, firemen said.

The blaze gutted the Kent Kove and the upstairs Water Street Saloon and Pirates Alley. All three were part of same building.

Besides the bars, the fire destroyed about $20,000 in musical instruments awaiting use of two Kent bands scheduled to be played in the Kove when it was to open for business later Wednesday night. Spokesmen for the bands,

"Good Company" and "15-60-75," said the instruments were not insured.

Witnesses said dense black smoke erupted from doorways as firemen fought the flames.

Witnesses also said flames shot through the building's front entrance in the initial moments of the three-hour blaze, reaching the median of the four-lane street the bars fronted.

No more change for long calls

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Fifty students from Saudi Arabia attending Findlay College no longer need $65 worth of change to make a 20 minute telephone call home.

The student affairs office at the college is allowing the students to be billed for long distance calls made from that location and a local motel is opening a room at night so the students can talk and then pay at the front desk. Last month the Arabs were forced to use a pay telephone booth. The first three minutes of a call to Saudi Arabia costs $9.65—a minimum of 40 coins—and each additional minute cost $3.20.

The students were carrying several pounds of change to pay telephone booths after Ohio Bell Telephone Co. refused them credit cards or bill the calls to the student's college telephone.

Oberlin College in Ohio was the first college in the country to admit women.

Damage set at $10,000 in home blaze

A two-alarm blaze broke out at the Thomas M. McCoy residence, 702 Carolyn Road, at 6:38 p.m. Wednesday. Washington C.H. firefighters worked over two and one-half hours fighting the blaze which started in the McCoy basement.

McCoy told the Record-Herald he and his son were returning home from a short trip to the store when they saw the smoke. His wife, who was home at the time, had already alerted the fire department and the family went safely outside to wait.

Firemen believe the blaze started in an ash-catching box located in the basement under the living room fireplace. One side of the box (the wall side) was made from wood. They cautioned many of these ash receptacle boxes are constructed this way and homeowners should be wary.

The four firemen on duty at the time of the blaze were able to contact nine regular firefighters and eight volunteer firemen to assist in fighting the blaze, classified as one of the most difficult to extinguish because of its inaccessibility in a basement. Fireman Jay Smith, one of the first to enter the home wearing a mask and oxygen gear, stated it was like being in a cloud "the smoke was so thick!" Smith added most of the danger in a basement fire lies in the fact that it's difficult to ventilate and until this is accomplished, nothing can be seen.

Firemen resorted to chopping a hole in the side of the McCoy residence as one ventilation technique. They also poked holes in the McCoy roof with a partition nozzle which resembles a spear attached to a hose to flush the attic, also suspected of being on fire.

Damage to the McCoy house was estimated by firemen to be $8,000 and damage to contents was estimated at $2,000. No one was injured.

Bank bandit slain in Paris shootout

PARIS (AP) — Police killed a North African bank robber and captured his Spanish accomplice early today as they tried to escape after holding about 30 hostages for 14 hours in a bank near the Eiffel Tower.

The Spaniard tripped and hurt his head as he tried to run from the getaway car, which crashed into a taxi less than half a mile from the bank. Two women hostages in the car and all the hostages in the bank were unhurt.

Police said the two gunmen, "armed to the teeth," tried to rob a branch of the Credit Lyonnais shortly after 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, but were interrupted by guards from a Brink's delivery truck. There was an exchange of shots, a passerby was shot in the foot, and the gunmen herded members of the bank staff and customers into the basement safe deposit room.

The gunmen threatened to start shooting their hostages unless they were supplied with a getaway car and $2 million in $100 bills. Sounds like gunshots were heard periodically from within the bank.

Police cordoned off the area and surrounded the bank but pulled back when the gunmen fired on them. As night fell, the police shone floodlights on the bank.

The gunmen wrecked the bank's telephone switchboard, but police provided a field telephone which the gunmen drew inside and used for negotiations.

Police moved a car into place in front of the bank about 10:30 p.m. and placed four sacks apparently containing money in the door to the bank. The gunmen demanded more money, and when negotiations lagged about midnight one of the men emerged from the bank with a pistol at the neck of a hostage and shouted, "Look out. We're going to shoot everyone."

Shortly after 1 a.m., the gunmen with two women hostages and the four sacks got into the car and roared away from the bank, followed by police cars. After crossing the Seine, they ran into the taxi just off the Champs Elysees.

The two men jumped from the car, began to run and opened fire as the pursuing police approached them. More than 30 shots were exchanged before the North African was killed.

Last September, two bandits held seven hostages for a day in another central Paris bank. They escaped with $1.3 million in a high-speed chase through the city. The money was never found, but six persons are awaiting trial on charges of complicity in the case.

Cleveland was the first city to light its streets by electricity.

WATERING THE ATTIC — Washington C.H. Fireman Jim Sever is shown on the roof of the Tom McCoy house, 702 Carolyn Road, with what is known as a partition nozzle. This special piece of firefighting equipment is specifically designed for punching small holes in the roof to enable the water to be injected within. The fire, which started in the McCoy basement Wednesday evening, climbed up the walls to the attic, doing some $10,000 worth of total damage.

PLANNING STRATEGY — Washington C.H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen, observes the fire which broke out at the Tom McCoy home, 702 Carolyn Road, Wednesday evening and plans strategy. The blaze, which broke out in the McCoy basement, was classified as one of the most difficult to fight because of problems encountered in ventilating a basement. Standing to the left of Chief Denen is Fireman Jim Sever and Assistant Fire Chief John Rockhold. To the right, dressed in mask and oxygen gear, is Lt. Cecil Seaman.

Red Cross chapter honors Mrs. Korn

Mrs. Betty Korn, who has served for more than 20 years as executive secretary of the Fayette County chapter of the American Red Cross, was honored Wednesday night by members of the Red Cross board of directors in the Terrace Lounge.

Mrs. Korn, wife of Leonard R. Korn, 323 Gregg St., will retire effective Jan. 1 as executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter.

During the party honoring Mrs. Korn, the board of directors announced that Miss Helen Slavens, 426 S. Fayette St., will take over the duties as executive secretary effective Jan.

1. Meanwhile, Miss Slavens, an employee of Craig's Department Store, will be working with Mrs. Korn to be acquainted with the responsibilities of the new position and will be attending a training session in Columbus.

Mrs. Korn, who was named to the executive secretary's position in 1955, was presented with gifts of appreciation by Jack Brennan, chairman of the Fayette County chapter of the American Red Cross.

Appreciation for "Her years of faithful service" was also expressed by Al Justice, a representative of the Central Ohio Red Cross in Columbus.

Miller banishes UMW dissident

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Arnold Miller, president of the United Mine Workers Union, has suspended a District 6 UMW board member and apparently has ordered a District 23 member to Alaska.

Suspended was Karl Kafton, a member of the District 6 board which includes Ohio and the northern panhandle of West Virginia. The UMW in Washington said Kafton left Gillette, Wyo., contrary to Miller's orders.

A UMW spokesman would neither confirm nor deny published reports that Lee Roy Patterson of District 23 in western Kentucky had been assigned to investigate possible attempts by AMAX Coal Co. to buy a mine in Alaska.

Concealed weapon defendant fined $75 in court session

A Washington C.H. area man was found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case during Wednesday's court session.

Steve Taylor, 22, Rt. 4, Washington C.H., was charged with the offense by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies who found a switchblade knife on Taylor's person June 27. Judge Case fined Taylor $75 and court costs and ordered the knife confiscated. Taylor was also bound over to the Fayette County grand jury on three additional charges brought against him by sheriff's deputies involving possession of a hallucinogen, possession of a hallucinogen for sale and sale of a hallucinogen, at the same time the concealed weapon charge was issued. Judge Case also found Ronald E. Yocum, 18, Jamestown, guilty of possessing marijuana and fined him $75 and court costs. Yocum had been arrested by Fayette County Sheriff's deputies Oct. 26 and charged when marijuana was discovered on the floor of his auto.

Fall session of OEA slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The fall session of the Ohio Education Association's Representative Assembly will be held here Saturday, to be attended by a record 1,350 elected delegates.

Business will include possible action on amendments to the 81,000-member teacher association's legislative program for 1976 and consideration of amendments to the OEA constitution and bylaws.

Traffic Court

A 24-year-old Fayette County man was found guilty of driving while intoxicated by Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case during Wednesday's court proceedings.

Michael W. Davis of Mathews Road was fined $400 and court costs, sentenced to serve 30 days in jail with 22 days suspended with credit for time already served and had his driver's license suspended for 90 days. Judge Case also ruled that Davis present a physician's report every 90 days for 18 months in order to have the 22 days of the jail term suspended. He had been arrested by Washington C.H. police officers on Nov. 28 at the intersection of Court and Hinde streets. Police also charged Davis with reckless operation and Judge Case fined him $50 and court costs on this charge.

Judge Case heard a second driving while intoxicated case and a case involving driving while under license revocation. The judge also accepted one bond forfeiture.

Fred A. McKee, 51, Cincinnati, was charged with driving while intoxicated by the Ohio Highway Patrol, but an agreement between the prosecution and the defendant reduced the intoxication charge to reckless operation. The demand for a jury trial was withdrawn and Judge Case fined McKee $100 and court costs.

Charles W. Townsend, 50, Springfield, was charged with driving under license revocation, improper change of course and driving while intoxicated on Aug. 5 by Washington C.H. police. Judge Case found Townsend guilty of driving under revocation and fined him $400 and court costs and sentenced him to 90 days in jail with 70 days suspended on two years good behavior during which no Ohio motor vehicle law will be violated. The charges against Townsend involving improper change of course and driving while intoxicated were dismissed by Judge Case with court costs waived.

John F. Pierce, 18, of 807 Lakeview Ave., forfeited an $18 bond for failing to obey a traffic device. Judge Case accepted the bond forfeiture.

Deputies probe larceny

A larceny and a dog bite were reported by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department today.

A citizens band radio and microphone belonging to Thomas E. Preston, 166 Staunton-Jasper Road, were taken from his car sometime between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday. Sheriff's deputies estimated the loss at $209 and are investigating.

Brandy Wing, 1, Zimmerman Road, sustained a lacerated forehead and gum at her residence at 7:50 p.m. Wednesday when bit in the face by a dog. Sheriff's deputies reported the child was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Reuben C.M. Hastings, born at Hebarsville, Athens County, Ohio, in 1867, and educated at Ohio University, figured out the system which permits many telephone conversations to go over the same wires without interference.

B'burg school constructed in 1910

BLOOMINGBURG — Bloomingburg School, in existence for over 65 years, was constructed on the site of the original academy in 1910. It was erected at a cost of $15,000.

The school became consolidated in 1914, and began to take in children from various parts of the county. The first "school bus" was a bus frame drawn by a team of horses and driven by Flim Ceslaw. During winter months, sled runners were attached to the body.

By 1921, most of the building additions had been completed. Two classrooms and a basement were erected in 1918, and then three years later another two classrooms and gymnasium were added costing $60,000.00.

As the years went by, the attendance continued to grow until enrollment reached 340 students in 1938. At that time, the gymnasium was converted into a cafeteria, and basketball games were moved to Washington C.H.

Early in 1951 action was started to build a new gymnasium. After much discussion with an architect and contractor the school board called for a bond issue of $45,000, which was passed. However, the school board discovered that an additional $30,000 was needed, so a second bond was issued, and it also passed.

The gymnasium was started in 1951, and by the time it had been completed, about $80,000 had been sunk into the project. Maximum seating capacity allowed for 800 people.

B'burg school under construction

Due to overcrowding conditions in 1955, an arrangement was made between the Former Paint Township Board of Education and the Bloomingburg Board of Education to transfer the Yatesville assets to the Bloomingburg district.

A plan was initiated to consolidate all of the school districts in Fayette County (outside of Washington C.H.) with the exception of Bloomingburg, Book-walter, and Jeffersonville. This called for a referendum, which was soon passed by the people. Shortly thereafter, the three remaining school districts were invited to join. On Dec. 31, 1955, the Bloomingburg Village District ceased to exist, and became a part of the Miami Trace School District.

The new school did not open its doors for lower school classes until 1962. Much litigation had centered around the moving of the high school to Washington C.H.

Today, the venerable edifice houses the elementary and junior high grades. Students of high school age attend Miami Trace High School.

G.H. Biddle, 45 Lincoln St., Bloomingburg, served the school district for over 40 years, and was the last Bloomingburg High School superintendent.

Dead man got checks 22 years

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Yvonne M. Alford says her physician father has been receiving checks each year since 1953 from the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation for medical care for injured workers. He died 22 years ago.

"Something is fouled up someplace and someone didn't get the word," Mrs. Alford said in a telephone interview from her home in Amherst, 30 miles from Cleveland. She said she has sent the checks back each year with the notation that her father, Dr. Arthur F. McQueen, is deceased, but has received no reply.

Reached by telephone in the state capital in Columbus, David B. Godfrey, deputy administrator of the bureau, said his staff spent a few hours investigating the case but "couldn't find any correlation to that particular name in our files."

A special legislative committee is investigating Ohio's Workmen's Compensation system.

"We would have something if the checks were sent out," said Godfrey. "As far as I know, he didn't receive any checks from our bureau. My people tell me something similar happened a week ago and it turned out that those checks were from Social Security. Her father might have got them from Social Security."

"No, it wasn't from Social Security," said Mrs. Alford. "The envelopes were Workmen's Compensation envelopes. I don't remember what was on the checks. I can't prove I got them. I have no photostats."

Godfrey said his staff is continuing to look into the matter. He said the system is computerized.

Mrs. Alford said her father had been a physician in Amherst for about 40 years. He died July 18, 1953, at the age of 68. Since then, she said, he has received a check once or twice a year for about $15 or $20.

Mrs. Alford said the checks were made out to her father at his old office address in Amherst, but were forwarded to her by the post office. She explained that Amherst is a small town, once with only 3,000 population but now up to about 10,000, and postal workers knew she was Dr. McQueen's daughter.

The last check she received was about six months ago, she said, and she returned it to the regional bureau in Cleveland.

"I thought maybe they could get through where I couldn't," she said. "I thought I'd try another avenue. I've received no word since then."

She said it is possible that some of the checks during the first few years after her father's death were back pay. "But they would have to be sent back anyway to be rewritten through the estate. They couldn't be cashed."

"After a while, I began to think, Lord haven't they caught it yet. I just assumed it was the wrong doctor, a mixup. Some doctor is not being paid, I thought. Amherst is a fairly small town. I knew the names of a great many patients. The name of the patients taken care of listed on the checks, I had never heard of. It is kind of funny when you come right down to it... that is takes this long."

Question hundreds in girl's death

CINCINNATI (AP) — State and federal authorities said they have questioned "hundreds of people" in connection with the disappearance of a University of Cincinnati coed whose body was discovered Wednesday in Northern Kentucky.

Susan Gorman's parents reported they believe the girl was kidnaped the day before Thanksgiving.

Her body was found in a ditch beside Kentucky 609 near Butler by two teenage boys.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, so "The Montefuscos" and "Fay" flopped on Thursday nights. NBC will try, try again with two more Thursday sitcoms premiering tonight — "Grady" and "The Cop and the Kid."

Neither will cause belly laughs. Still, I'd put the latter series in the "has promise" category. It's about a white, pot-bellied, middle-aged cop who becomes the legal guardian of a young black kid.

I'd put "Grady," a "Sanford and Son" spinoff, in the "they-better-pray" category. It stars Whitman May in the slow-talking Grady Wilson role he had as a frequent visitor to Fred Sanford's home in Watts.

In tonight's debut, he tells Fred he's leaving that black Los Angeles community to live in nearby Santa Monica with his daughter, her husband and their two teen-aged kids, who are moving there from Chicago.

Can you see the ocean from the new home, Fred asks.

Yes, says Grady, provided you go down the hallway, go out in the kitchen, descend a flight of stairs "and take the Number Six bus — in five minutes — there it is."

I wish he'd taken the bus back to the studio for a decent script. The one he has tonight is so strained it must have been pushed through a screen door.

"The Cop and the Kid" stars Charles Durning as the middle-aged bachelor cop and an appealing preteen newcomer, Terre Turner, as the kid. Its opening script is weak, but the show is sprightly in acting and pace.

The plot concerns how the cop becomes the legal guardian of the kid. They first meet when the kid, jaywalking out of a poolroom, almost is run over by the cop's car and cries, "Why don't ya honk, honky?"

They meet again when the kid steals a radio from a store. The cop chases him, tumbles over some trash cans and lies there gasping from an asthma attack. The kid stops, helps him and is arrested.

It turns out that the kid, a foster home runaway, is basically decent, though not above demanding from the cop a court plea for leniency, lest he tell the court about the cop's asthma and cause his retirement.

The court is so impressed by Durning's plea it makes him the boy's guardian. Durning and Turner work well together and with better scripts this series may get a lot of fans.

Hear slaying testimony

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cleophus Collins, 52, said slain plain clothes policeman William Loftin pulled a pistol instead of a badge to identify himself so Collins pulled his own gun and fired.

Collins, who could face the death penalty if convicted of aggravated murder in the Aug. 26 shooting, took the stand in his own defense Wednesday.

The case was expected to go to the jury in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court today.

Collins denied the police contention that Specialists Loftin and Claude Dell approached Collins outside and Avondale bar after Collins fired a shot in the air.

Collins testified the sound came from a nearby driveway and he believed it to be a firecracker.

"I saw a man, not dressed like a policeman," said Collins. "He wasn't even dressed in detective clothes. Detective clothes are sharp."

"He looked like a hippy or something. I thought it was somebody going to rip me off."

Collins said Loftin told him that he was a policeman but drew a gun when Collins demanded to see a badge.

Florence E. Allen of Cleveland, once an Ohio Supreme Court judge, became the first woman ever to serve on a high federal court. President Franklin D. Roosevelt named her to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

Cleveland Arena sale possible

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sports entrepreneur Nick Mileti is tired of having the Cleveland Arena "just sitting there" and is ready to sell it for whatever the use, his associate says.

Tom Embrescia, vice president and general manager of Mileti's Cleveland radio operations, says Mileti is staging a nationwide advertising campaign to sell the former sports center for $2.5 million, "even if it means tearing it down or selling it as a warehouse."

"The land value alone is $1 million," Embrescia added.

Haines earns spot on AA All-Ohio football squad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Washington C.H.'s Brian Haines was named to the all-Ohio Class AA grid team today.

Haines, an all-leaguer on both offense and defense, was selected to the all-state second team as an offensive guard. Two other Blue Lion gridders, defensive end Tim O'Flynn and defensive back Dewey Foster, received special mention on the All-Ohio squad. Biff Bumgarner was the only South Central Ohio League player to land first team honors in the Class AA balloting of sportscasters and sportswriters from around the state.

Bumgarner, who led Circleville to a second place finish in the SCOL, won a spot at running back. Tiger teammates Tom Strawser and Brent Mancini were listed on the special mention roster.

Other SCOL players to place on the special mention list were Steve Kelch of Hillsboro, Dan Anders of Uniontown, and Chuck Conley of Greenfield McClain.

Fred Jacobs, Cincinnati Wyoming's amazing ground gainer, and versatile Ken Fritz of Ironton lead the 1975 Associated Press Ohio Class AA high school football all-stars.

Jacobs, piling up more than 2,200 yards rushing in his senior season, earned the Class AA State Back of the Year title.

The 5-foot-10, 170-pound running back averaged nearly 10 yards per rush and scored more than 160 points.

Fritz, a rugged 6-3, 225 pounds, made second team allstate last year as an offensive tackle. This season he starred at offensive guard and linebacker.

Fritz, who bench presses 400 pounds, was in on 20 tackles a game and 85 per cent of 9-1 Ironton's rushing attack followed his blocking.

The Class AA Ohio coaching laurels went to Tom Greer of Oregon Stritch. Greer's record was 1-8 in his first year in 1974. This time he was 7-3 against all but one AA opponent. His team qualified for the state semifinals, too.

There were no first team repeaters from last season on the 1975 squad, equipped with 22 seniors and a lone junior, defensive end Dan Whittaker of Uniontown Lake.

The first team running backs, fired by Jacobs, accounted for nearly 6,900 yards during the regular season. Kaiser Holman of Ashtabula Harbor piled up 1,788 yards, Brad Mason of Norwalk 1,628 and Biff Bumgarner of Circleville 1,467.

The quarterback spot went to Brian Bays, who led Wheelersburg to a 24-1 record once he began starting as a sophomore. Bays threw 12 touchdown passes, completing 61 of 122 for more than 1,000 yards.

Fritz' line teammates included ends Marc Cox of London and Mark Baun of Delta, tackles Joel Babcock of Swanton and Ed Kloboves of Warren Harding, guard Mike Cunningham of Cleveland Holy Name and center Mark Gress of West Lafayette Jordan.

The No. 1 defensive line was formed by ends and Scott Petersen of Columbus Watterson and Whittaker, tackles Ray Welch of St. Paris Graham and Dave Conrad of Marysville and Cincinnati Wyoming's Tom Berger at middle guard.

Earning the linebacking berths were Pat Starvaggi of Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary, Ron Calhoun of Hamilton Ross and Randy Emans of Pemberville Eastwood.

Ken Bronz, who intercepted 17 passes for Columbia this fall, headed the defensive backfield including Bobby Thomas of Ironton and Joe Minor of Cleveland Holy Name.

The selections are based strictly on regular season performances and are based on the recommendations of a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Academic grid stars announced

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Brains and brawn apparently go together in the Mid-American Conference, if the league's 1975 all-academic football team is an indication.

Twenty-one of the 23 players selected by the conference's faculty representatives were starters on their respective squads this fall. Team members had a 3.27 grade point average on a 4.0 grading scale.

"This is an outstanding all-academic team," said MAC Commissioner Fred Jacoby. "It exhibits quality in both the classroom and on the football field."

Eastern Michigan and Ohio University each placed five players on the team.

Eastern Michigan's selections included center Terry Butz, offensive guard Rod Luplow, running back Rod Slater, punter Dave Spencer and middle guard Rick Franz.

Ohio's players chosen were offensive tackle Bob Weidaw, a unanimous choice; tight end John Barrington, defensive tackle Wally Sonnie, defensive end Steve Miller and linebacker Roger Koepfle.

Repeaters from the 1974 squad were Bowling Green wide receiver John Boles and Central Michigan defensive tackle John Wunderlich.

Besides Weidaw and Wunderlich, unanimous selections were Bowling Green running back Dave Preston, Ball State defensive end Tim Irelan, linebacker Dave Corning and defensive back Dave Gapinski of Western Michigan and Central Michigan defensive back Ed Rykalski.

Completing the squad were defensive back Jay Mumford of Western Michigan, offensive guard John Kloc of Central Michigan, offensive tackle Terry Pirman and linebacker Mike McKibben of Kent State, Toledo wide receiver Jeff Hepinstall and Northern Illinois quarterback Jerry Golsteyn.

To qualify for the team, a player must letter and carry a classroom average of at least a B.

Appleton, Faloba win OAC honors

CLEVELAND (AP) — The pace-setting performances of Kenyon's Tim Appleton and Marietta's Jeff Faloba won the juniors player-of-the-week honors, the Ohio Conference reported today.

Appleton, a 6-foot-5 center, sank 15 field goals and seven of his eight free throws to lead Kenyon to a 95-79 victory over Ohio Wesleyan. The Pittsburgh, Pa., native also grabbed 18 rebounds.

In the conference's southern division, Faloba scored 23 points and garnered 14 rebounds as Marietta beat Morris Harvey 63-59. Faloba, also a center at 6-foot-8, hit with 10 of 14 attempts from the field and three of four free throws.

It was Faloba's third such honors in the initial week of a season.

Virginia Squires top Spirits

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Spirits of St. Louis, one of the struggling franchises still remaining in the rapidly dwindling American Basketball Association, not only are having trouble attracting fans, but now they can't even win games.

Playing before a sparse crowd of 1,588 Wednesday night, the Spirits dropped a 114-112 decision to the Virginia Squires, who have won only four of 21 games and are the only team in the league with a losing record. It was the Spirits' sixth loss in their last seven home games and dropped their over-all record to 11-11. They had beaten Virginia in all four previous meetings this season.

In the only other ABA game, the Indiana Pacers beat the Kentucky Colonels 113-100.

Hargus Creek wins at Lebanon

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Hargus Creek, driven by provisional driver Ron Powell, captured the feature race at Lebanon Raceway Wednesday night.

The winner went the mile in 2:08 3-5, claiming the triumph by a half-length to pay $7.80, $3.20 and $2.20. By Knight, second, returned $2.80 and $2.20. Sarah's Kiss showed at $2.40.

A 6-7 combination of Grand Ted Volo and Bylines' Duchess paid $2.40 in the daily double.

A crowd of 1,141 wagered $98,206.

Stingers turn back Crusaders

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Crusader Coach John Wilson says he isn't pushing the panic button after seeing his World Hockey Association squad drop four of their last five games, but some changes are expected if the Crusaders don't break out of their slump soon.

"I'm not going to put up with this much longer," Wilson said after Cleveland blew a two-goal lead and dropped a 5-3 decision to Cincinnati Wednesday night.

All work, no play is life of NFL official

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald Sports Editor

Ray Dodez does a lot of traveling in the United States during the fall, but he has little time to go sightseeing.

He has been called names and been the target of boos and debris. He works a five-day a week job, and then heads for the airport on Saturdays leaving his wife, who he rarely sees, for the whole weekend. He gets very little pay for his efforts.

Ray Dodez is a professional football official.

It is a thankless profession, yet it is a necessary one, needed to keep the No. 1 American sport going.

Why, when the only thing opposing fans usually agree on is that they don't particularly like the officials, would a person pursue such a vocation?

"You have to love the game," Dodez said speaking at the Washington C.H. Optimists Club weekly meeting Wednesday night at the Washington Inn.

"I wasn't big enough to go on to pro ball," Dodez, who played college ball at Wooster College some 25 years ago, said. "But, I wanted to stay close to the game."

Dodez, who works for Ohio Bell in Columbus during the week, began officiating at the junior high school level in Dayton 24 years ago. He worked his way up through the ranks—high school, small college, major university—as all professional officials do.

While working on Missouri Valley Conference gridirons, Dodez was scouted by the NFL. Eight years ago he accepted an NFL offer to turn to pro-ball officiating and he has been at it ever since.

NFL officials—there are 84—don't get paid much and there is a reason for that. All 84 of them hold down jobs in the off season and even during the season so they will have a comfortable income, which the league feels will protect the game from bribes and graft. Some are bankers and some are lawyers, but they all must have adequate incomes before they are hired on as officials by the NFL.

Dodez, a deeply religious and personable man, is a member of a six-man team, which works 13 games a year at anyone of the many NFL cities.

NFL officials must be in their assigned city the night before each game. This usually leaves Dodez a Saturday morning trip to Port Columbus each weekend to catch the next jet to San Francisco or Kansas City.

The officials meet for dinner on Saturday night and then view the previous week's game film sent by the league with a critique of their last performance. The six-man officiating team usually spends three to four hours that night answering the league's questionnaire on possible missed calls.

Sunday morning brings a two-hour rules meeting and a trip to the stadium. The officials must be at the playing site nearly two hours before kickoff.

After the game the officials rush to the airport to catch their flights home.

It's all work and and little play Dodez says, but officials do get in on some humorous game situations. Once when Dodez was working a Kansas City Chiefs game, veteran tightend Fred Arbanas lost his glass eye, which he acquired along with an amputated finger on his right hand from an automobile accident. The players helped Arbanas find his missing eye piece and Dodez asked the tightend what would happen to his football career if his other eye was injured. Arbanas replied that he would become an official.

Ray Dodez must love the game.

Veeck bid for Chisox rejected

By MIKE HARRIS

AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Chicago White Sox and Bill Veeck remained in baseball limbo today after American League owners rejected his initial bid for the team and gave him one week to raise the ante.

Veeck, the man who introduced bat day and midgets to baseball while owner of three teams over three decades, was told Wednesday night by the owners his offer included too much debt and not enough cash.

"I'm sort of in shock," said Veeck after being told he must come up with $1.2 million more in debenture money for the sale to go through. "I didn't anticipate this. The requirements in this (new proposal) are quite a bit more stringent than other teams that have been admitted in recent years."

"I'm neither optimistic nor pessimistic," he added. "It's possible (to meet the asking price) and we'll try."

The attorney for the group Veeck is representing, David Cohen of Philadelphia, was definitely pessimistic.

Ex-Purdue grid coach succumbs

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Jack Mollenkopf, former Purdue University football coach, died early today, seven weeks after he was hospitalized with cancer.

He was 70.

Mollenkopf died about 12:30 a.m., EST, at Mayo Clinic here, where he was admitted Oct. 13. It was the third time in 14 years he had been hospitalized with cancer.

Mollenkopf retired as Purdue coach in 1969 after 14 seasons in which his teams compiled an 84-38-9 record. The 84 victories were more than twice as many as any other Boilermaker football coach and included a 14-13 Rose Bowl triumph over Southern California in 1967.

Blue Lions to face Unioto

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Writer

Defense seems to be the key for Washington C.H. in the upcoming game with Unioto, Friday night, according to head coach Gary Shaffer. Shaffer stated, "Defense is what we have to work on most, along with blocking out for the offensive rebound and getting back quickly on defense."

This Friday, the Lions travel to Unioto to play the Shermans, who evidently have had enough defense played on them to last quite a while. They managed only 12 points in the entire first half against defending SCOL champion Circleville while falling behind as much as 50 points later in the game.

The Tanks are not counted on to do very much this season but it is possible that they could rise to the occasion for their home opener. They shot only 31 per cent from the floor against Circleville while getting nearly as many points at the free throw line as from the floor.

Unioto, which lost nine of twelve players through graduation including 6-foot-8 Greg Alcorn and 6-5 Jeff Throckmorton, are suffering from a lack of height this season. This was evident in their first game as 5-8 Jim Johnson was the top rebounder with eight.

The Shermans should begin the game with Johnson and senior Keith Forcum at guards. Junior Scott Daily, who scored 12 points in the league opener, sophomore Gary Proehl and junior Steve Uhrig should report for the forward duties while 6-2 Roger Rutherford will anchor down the pivot position.

For Washington C.H., the starting five will remain the same as it was for the game with Madison Plains. Seniors Scott Sefton and Chuck Byrd will be the guards with Doug Phillips and John Denen at the forwards and Ken Upthegrove in the center.

All five had good games at Plains in one way or another. Byrd and Phillips tossed in 23 and 20 points, respectively. Sefton had a good shooting percentage from the floor, Upthegrove pulled down important rebounds, and Denen played a superb game on the boards and contributed 12 tallies.

Byrd could possibly begin the game on the bench after being stricken with a mysterious knee injury before Thanksgiving. He has had the knee drained and began practice on Monday and will probably start the game on Friday. Senior Randy Jamison is the other casualty, having missed practice all week with the flu and an ear infection.

The general consensus of the Lion team is that the Unioto floor is one of the finest in the league as far as scoring and rebounding. Phillips stated that the floor was "just right for jumping and we always shoot well down there." If that is true, the home-court advantage for Unioto could be limited to the fans.

MT plagued with cold shooting

WILMINGTON — The Miami Trace freshmen basketball team opened its season on a sour note Tuesday dropping a 44-26 decision to Wilmington.

Bob Williams, a 6-2 center, manhandled the Panther yearlings by throwing in 25 points while guard Mark Dunn paced Miami Trace with 12 points.

The Panthers got a late start on their trip to Wilmington and only had five minutes to warm up for the contest. Coach Jeff Parker felt the short practice time had something to do with the first quarter score as the Panthers fell behind 13-0.

Parker sent his squad into the full court press to start the second half. The resulting Wilmington turnovers and better shooting eyes left Trace trailing by only five points, 24-19, at the half.

The Panthers lost their hot hands again in the second half hitting on only two of 17 shots from the field, and Wilmington pulled to an easy win.

The freshmen take on Madison Plains Thursday in their next outing.

Middle school wins

The Washington Middle School eighth grade basketball team won its season opener Tuesday on Tom Shields field goal in the waning seconds.

The Middle Schoolers trailed Chillicothe Smith 29-28, when Smith connected to give his team the win.

Shields led all scorers with 12 points and teammate Mark Lee tossed in eight.

The eighth graders next game is slated for next Thursday against Greenfield.

MUZZLE-LOADING HUNTER — Jim Sears of Jeffersonville was one of many successful Fayette County deer hunters to bring their trophies by the Record Herald this week. Sears downed a seven-point buck early Wednesday in Meigs County with a muzzle-loading .50-caliber rifle. Also downing deer in the opening days of the 1975 hunting season were Earl Monroe, 820 S. Main, with a seven-point buck from Ross County; Darrell and Charles Gardener, who each killed a deer, a doe and a nine-pointer, in Meigs County; David Hart with a six-point buck in Meigs County and reporting the biggest trophy so far was Jack Wisecup, who downed a 14-point buck Monday in Meigs County.

Fur trapping popular in Ohio

By JIM DAUBEL

Written For Associated Press

The trapping of fur-bearing animals predates the State of Ohio itself and is practiced today for many of the same reasons as in pioneer days.

The priorities of why Ohioans trap may have changed over the years but fundamental reasons of economics, food, sport and protection from predation still motivate the trapper.

Explorers and early settlers in Ohio harvested muskrat, raccoon, opossum, beaver, fox, mink, badger, skunk and weasel. The meat of some animals provided food and the sale or barter of pelts was a principal form of exchange for staples that were otherwise unavailable.

Today there are some 20,000 trappers in the state. And despite the largely urban character of much of Ohio, the state routinely is among the top three in number of pelts produced and among the five leading states in the value of fur harvested. Furs add more than $1 million annually to the Ohio economy, according to the Wildlife Division.

A relatively small number of trappers earn a substantial portion of their annual income from trapping. And even then trapping is far from a lucrative undertaking. At $2.50 to $3.25 a pelt for muskrats, for example, only trappers with access to large marshes or long trawls and much time find the pursuit profitable on a dollars per hour basis.

Food is a byproduct of modern trapping, as it was in early days, although few consider that aspect as important now as it was then. Baked muskrat or raccoon are not exactly high-appeal meals but both are quite edible if properly prepared, as they are by numerous sportsmen's clubs whose game dinners and "rat feeds" are highlights of annual activities.

The necessity of trapping to provide food and income for settlers has shifted in our changing society to the need to protect property and animals against predators.

In many areas of Ohio muskrats must be controlled to prevent severe damage to dikes, banks and dams of farm ponds, lakes and streams. An overpopulation of "coons," possums and foxes can lead to a heavy toll of barnyard fowl and eggs. An imbalance of predators also cuts seriously into the populations of some wild species like quail, pheasant and other game whose nests are vulnerable to four-legged thieves in spring.

Properly managed harvest of fur-

Wittenberg upsets BGSU; wins 72-60

By The Associated Press

Little Wittenberg had just upset big Bowling Green and an elated Tigers basketball Coach Bob Hamilton said without qualification that his senior guards Skip Freeman and Tom Dunn "are the finest I've ever had."

Freeman swished 25 points and Dunn 20 to lead Wittenberg over the Falcons 72-60 Wednesday night.

"I felt Freeman got us the lead with his shooting in the first half and Dunn kept it for us with his second half performance," Hamilton said.

Freeman got 13 of his points in the first period, while Dunn split his evenly between the halves, 10-10. But six of Dunn's second period points came on three straight long jumpers midway through the half that iced the victory for Wittenberg.

Pat Haley, coach of the Mid-American Conference Falcons, said he was "as disappointed as I have ever been in coaching. We've got an awful lot of work to do."

In other major Ohio college games, Miami defeated Dayton 66-55, Ohio University edged Marietta 59-56, Cincinnati clobbered Wright State 118-70, South Carolina whipped Toledo 84-64, and Xavier humiliated Centre, Ky. 100-64.

The Redskins, now 2-1, fell behind 21-12 early in the game but came alive in the late minutes of the first half and outscored Dayton 17-2 to take a 31-27 advantage at halftime. The game remained close for much of the second half, but Miami, with its controlled style of play, stayed in command. Johnny Davis of Dayton (1-1) took game scoring honors with 21 points.

Ohio University salvaged a triumph, its first in three games, after Marietta (1-1) stormed back from a 12-point deficit late in the game to move to within two baskets of the lead.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Mouth Cracks: Many Causes

How can cracks in the corners of the mouth be prevented? I understand that this could result from a vitamin deficiency. But I eat a good normal diet.

Mr. W.L., N.C.

Fissures, or cracks in the skin, at the corners of the mouth may be due to a vitamin deficiency.

However, this is rare compared to other causes of this annoying condition. There is a tendency to quickly indict a vitamin deficiency and to overlook the more frequent reasons for them.

These cracks occur frequently and persist in people who wear dentures. Bad-fitting dentures, particularly, are the culprits.

Saliva accumulates in the corners and irritates the surface of the skin, causing it to break. Then infection of this broken skin surface may occur and prevent the healing of the fissure.

The tendency to run the tongue over the lips and over the corners of the mouth may also be responsible.

Adults whose noses are blocked by allergy sometimes tend to breathe through their mouths. This is another possible cause.

Children with large adenoids have the same blockage to the nose. Drooling from the corners of the mouth may cause persistent fissures.

If there is distinct evidence that the diet is insufficient and that vitamin deficiencies exist, this must, of course, be considered as a cause.

Some doctors use an antibiotic ointment and, occasionally, cortisone to help cure the infection and reduce the inflammation.

Miss T.A., Maine

Dear Miss A.:

"No" is the direct answer to this question. The dogmatic "no" emphasizes the fact that persons cannot choose their own antibiotic, nor rely on one that was previously used for some infection.

The doctor's past experience is often sufficient to guide his choice of antibiotics. There are some "broad spectrum" antibiotics that doctors often use. These are known to attack a variety of germs.

When an infection fails to respond, cultures and smears are taken. Using a complex, microscopic technique a specific antibiotic is then used to combat a specific germ.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism: A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Dix blasts gag order decision

MIAMI (AP) — Raymond E. Dix, president of the Inter American Press Association, says Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Blackmun's decision to uphold a Nebraska judge's pretrial publicity gag order was unconstitutional censorship.

Dix, publisher of the Daily Record of Wooster, Ohio, said in a statement for the IAPA on Wednesday that judicial curbs on the press are "just as harmful and unconstitutional as outright prior censorship."

"The decision by Supreme Court Justice Harry Blackmun to uphold an order by a Nebraska district court forbidding the pretrial information on a murder case is just that—censorship of the news," Dix said. "We fully support the American Society of Newspaper Editors and The Associated Press Managing Editors in their condemnation of the Blackmun decision and we urge the Supreme Court to take prompt emergency action to revoke the Nebraska district court's order."

The Blackmun decision was made in connection with the trial of Erwin Charles Simants, charged in the Oct. 18 slayings of six members of the Henry Kellie family of Sutherland, Neb.

Lincoln County Court Judge Ronald Ruff issued the original order prohibiting the publication or release of information about the pretrial proceedings of the case. The order was modified slightly by District Court Judge Hugh Stuart and then Blackmun. However, it was left standing by Blackmun on Nov. 20.

Spain Retires FROM Florida. OR, HOW AMERICA picked up FLORIDA for $5 million.

No luxury hotels. No drinks served at the pool. Just sand and palms and alligators. And a lot of fighting for it that destroyed property throughout Florida.

Americans in Florida figured Spain owed them $5,000,000 in property damages.

Our government offered to pick up the tab for Spain, if Spain would retire from Florida. Spain accepted. And was out.

You know, money from our citizens helped pay for things back then. And it still does.

Today, you can help with U.S. Savings Bonds. And at the same time, they let you build savings. Easily. Automatically.

This happens when you join the Payroll Savings Plan, or buy Bonds where you bank. Year after year, you accumulate more and more savings. And it can add up to a bundle.

So maybe you'd better start this week. Because, someday, you'll have to retire, too.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
200 years at the same location.

TWO DRIVERS, PASSENGER INJURED — Gary E. Christman, 4, of 533 Lewis St., is listed in fair condition at Children's Hospital in Columbus. The youth had been a passenger in the car pictured in the foreground, driven by Joseph R. Bryant, 34, of 533 Lewis St., when it collided at the intersection of Lewis and Rawlings streets Wednesday afternoon with a car driven by Mike W. Collins, 17, Greenfield. Collins and Bryant were also injured, but released after hospital treatment. Collins was cited by city police for failing to stop for a stop sign. His demolished auto is pictured in the background in the left-hand corner of the photo.

Youth in 'fair' condition

A four-year-old Washington C.H. boy is presently listed in fair condition at Children's Hospital in Columbus, suffering from a fractured clavicle and head trauma.

The youth, Gary E. Christman of 533 Lewis St., was a passenger in an auto driven by Joseph R. Bryant, 34, of 533 Lewis St., which was involved in an accident at the intersection of Lewis and Rawlings streets at 12:35 p.m. Wednesday with a car driven by Mike W. Collins, 17, Greenfield. Both drivers were also injured in the accident. Collins was treated for a lacerated forehead at Fayette Memorial Hospital and Bryant was treated for a shoulder injury at the hospital. The men were released after treatment. Washington C.H. police officers reported Collins ran the stop sign at the intersection and struck the Bryant car. The autos were demolished in the accident and Collins was charged with failure to obey a traffic sign.

Police investigated two additional traffic mishaps Wednesday and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported two accidents also, one involving injury.

A car driven by Dewey A. Sheidler, 77, of 510 E. Market St., struck a fence belonging to John Delay, Mount Sterling and an Ohio Edison Power Co. utility pole at 7:45 a.m. Wednesday, while traveling on U.S. 62 in Madison Township. Sheriff's deputies stated Sheidler braked for an auto ahead of him which was slowing, but couldn't stop in time so he swerved off the road. His car was severely damaged and he sustained fractured ribs. He was treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital. Sheriff's deputies cited him for failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

A car driven by Christi A. Adams, 18, Prairie Road, swerved on Prairie Road, one-tenth of a mile north of Bloomingburg-New Holland Road, to avoid hitting a rabbit and traveled out of control, striking a fence belonging to Donna Wagner, 1008 Washington Ave. Deputies estimated moderate damage to Ms. Adams' car, but reported her uninjured.

A car driven by Willis A. Dawson, 60, of 420 Fifth St., struck a pickup truck driven by Robert E. Self, 45, of 1103 S. Hinde St., at 4:22 p.m. Wednesday in the alley next to Enslens Market, off N. Main Street at 4:22 p.m. Wednesday. City police reported Dawson backed into the Self truck. He was not cited.

A car owned by Harley E. Jones, 54, of 741 Rawlings St., was struck by an unidentified vehicle at the intersection of Columbus Avenue and Delaware Street at 5:17 p.m. Wednesday. Jones told police the hit-skip driver crashed a red light, struck his auto and then drove off. Police are investigating.

Essex raps allegations

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ohio Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin Essex refuted NAACP allegations that Ohio has been lax in forcing local boards of education to end segregation.

"Ohio has succeeded in this area far in excess of other states," Essex said after a speech Wednesday to the National Community Education Association. Ohio banned laws segregating schools in 1887.

Nathaniel Jones, chief NAACP counsel, made the accusation Tuesday in Cleveland noting that federal court suits are pending against five of the state's largest systems, more than in any other state.

Tentative rail strike accord set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A threatened nationwide strike by 70,000 railway workers was averted today when bargainers reached tentative agreement on two key issues and continued negotiations in an attempt to settle several others.

Agreement to keep bargaining postponed a scheduled 6 a.m. walkout that would have closed virtually all of the nation's railroads, stranding thousands of commuters and longdistance travelers and halting rail freight deliveries.

Chief federal mediator W. J. Usery said he was hopeful for a quick settlement and told reporters just after the strike deadline, "It looks as if we came long way tonight." As he shuttled between suites where negotiations were taking place, Usery said he had been assured "by the unions, they will continue to bargain." Following an all-night bargaining session, a union spokesman said simply, "no strike has been authorized and negotiations are continuing."

Former alcoholic credits youth group with salvaging her life

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Mimi, a slender, 24-year-old woman, decided to begin her battle against alcoholism when she woke up in a hospital with two broken ribs and couldn't remember what had happened.

"It took five months and five hospitals in a row to bring me to my knees, to realize I could not control my drinking and I was suffering myself with the disease of alcoholism," she said, asking that her last name be withheld.

Of an estimated 500,000 young alcoholics in the United States some, like Mimi, are turning for help to a group operating within Alcoholics Anonymous, called Young People's AA.

Mimi described her life before YPAA at the recent 18th International Conference of Young People in AA in Memphis.

For years Mimi said she had been telling herself her problem was within her family, where she had grown up and into drinking as a way out.

"It wasn't until I broke away from the family unit that I realized I had a drinking problem of my own," she said. But the final realization — the hospital and broken ribs — was still about five years away.

Describing herself as an achiever seeking approval through her actions, she said she did not allow her drinking to interfere with her work, first as an art student, then as a commercial artist.

"I was gradually becoming more and more withdrawn and by the time I reached college, I had withdrawn totally into myself. My room — my bedroom at home — became my skid row."

Commuting to art school in Philadelphia aggravated her loneliness. "Being a commuter, I didn't have to mix in with anybody and stayed to myself." In deep depression several times, she attempted suicide.

She had joined AA when she was about 21 but left because the older people seemed like parents and that was where part of her problem was.

At 22, college completed, she moved out of her parents' house and into an unchallenging job. Her drinking became more serious. Then came the five hospitals in five months and the blackouts.

"A blackout is something most alcoholics experience," she said. "To everybody around you, you are wide awake and functioning but you don't remember. Your memory during that time blacks out."

She found YPAA after staying dry five months by herself.

Slowly she began to open up. The program itself is based on a willingness, one day at a time, not to drink, she said. "But they give you 12 steps to change your sick personality so that a need to drink to fill the emptiness in that personality is changed."

The impact of YPAA hit her about eight months later.

"I was walking alone on an empty beach in early October on the New Jersey shore and I knew that a higher power than me was there and I didn't have to be alone any more. I really began to believe I could do it . . . one day at a time."

Mimi has been dry 22 months and is finding her personality changing.

"Where there was hatred before, you learn to love," she said. "Where there was fear, you learn how to deal with it and make fear a challenge."

Volunteers will serve all areas of police department under new plan

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A new police volunteer program initiated in this coastal resort city may soon have ordinary citizens working alongside regular police officers investigating serious crimes.

Officials said Newport Beach has become the first city to open its entire police department to reserve forces.

Police Chief B. James Glavas said the new program is to take advantage of volunteers' skills, whether it means helping street patrolmen, investigating serious crimes with detectives or programming the department's computer.

"We want to get the community involved," said Lt. Don Picker, who said a recruiting drive is under way to increase the 12-man reserve force to 35 citizens. The department has 128 regular officers and 44 civilian employees.

Until a few months ago the reserve program in this Orange County city of 60,000 was much like volunteer operations elsewhere. Interested citizens were trained, given a badge and a uniform and sent into the field to help patrolmen.

Most of the volunteers were teachers, who were able to donate time during such peak activity periods as Easter week and the summer.

Picker said, "Instead of being an adjunct to the Patrol Division, we opened it up to all of the department."

Instrumental in the changed concept was reserve officer Jack C. Polley, vice president for corporation communications at Amcord, Inc. He had been a reserve officer for nine years and saw an opportunity for expanded local community involvement.

"We decided among ourselves we weren't in it for the money," Polley said. Under the old program the reserve was paid for such activities as traffic control.

"What we did was go to the chief and tell him we would rather have it on a volunteer basis."

Conservation plan backed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbia Gas of Ohio has endorsed a proposal by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) to conserve natural gas by compensating businessmen for the higher costs of using oil or other alternate fuels.

Columbia, in a pricing proposal submitted to the PUCO, said it is willing to "provide an economic incentive to customers to induce them to use their alternate fuels and release their natural gas allocations to the use of the curtailed customers who do not have such capability."

Under the new program, Picker said volunteers must be at 21 years old, live in Newport Beach, and be willing to volunteer at least 16 hours a month to the department. He said they are actively seeking women to join the program.

After a short training period required by the state, volunteers are initially assigned to the Patrol Division to familiarize them with basic field operation.

Then the department assigns the volunteers on the basis of their skills and desires to all three divisions, patrol, administrative and detective.

The utility said there currently are businessmen who could use oil or other fuels "but for economic reasons elect not to employ the higher priced alternate fuels."

Columbia suggested gas utilities pay business customers the difference in fuel costs if they convert, plus up to 10 per cent in addition to offset handling charges and differences in process efficiencies involved in the switch.

The PUCO last month suggested such a program to stimulate fuel conversion by business and industry in Ohio.

'Dear teacher, dear class'

Bicentennial reading

By LEWIS PARRETT
City Elementary Coordinator
This week "Dear Teacher, Dear Class" features Mrs. Ada K. Minshall and her first grade class at Eastside Elementary School.

Mrs. Minshall is quite welcome in Washington C.H. because so many people know her as a Washingtonian since birth. She graduated from Washington High School and then attended Miami University at Oxford. At Miami, Mrs. Minshall was a member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority. She has a total of 18 years in the teaching profession, two years in the Fayette County school system and 16 years in the first and fifth grades in Washington C.H.

She resides at 828 Briar Avenue with her husband Robert. They have two children, Dennis and Kay, who are both married. Everyone who knows Mrs.

Minshall knows her quiet love and devotion to her family.

Outside the classroom, Mrs. Minshall is a member of the Grace United Methodist Church, the Alpha Circle, and the Child Conservation League. Her activities include enjoying the outdoors through riding and walking, watching television, reading, and being a sports spectator.

Her favorite colors are rose and green; her favorite food is ice cream; and she lists her favorite places as Canada, near the water, and near wooded areas. During her summers, she enjoys camping and taking "mini-trips" to historical landmarks.

Mrs. Minshall comments on the class's special interests and abilities, "They are interested in weather changes and especially the cause and effect of it. They enjoy new reading programs and the lunch program."

Special projects that the class has planned for the school year are class records of the weather on calendars, saving seeds from a jack-o-lantern to plant next year, planting seeds from marigolds in the spring, and watching films pertaining to their interests almost once a week.

Next week, during the week of visitation, the class will be changing its way of thinking from Thanksgiving to Christmas. The group will follow its regular schedule throughout the week.

One of the comments from Mrs. Minshall's class was, "I am in school to learn things, but I like recess best." Mrs. Minshall continues, "I enjoy watching the first grade pupil change. When words, which have been just marks of black and white, begin to have meaning and a child is reading, a new phase of his life has begun."

The host and hostess will vary during the week as visitors will be introduced and greeted by the child that they come to visit. Mrs. Minshall and her class extend a warm welcome to everyone. Reading groups are from 9:30 to 11:15 a.m. and numbers and writing are in the afternoon from 12:30 until 2:00 p.m.

In the group picture, Mrs. Minshall is doing her bit for the bicentennial as her first grade students are enjoying old readers from other times including the Elson Basic Readers, the Child Library Readers, and the more widely known McGuffey Eclectic Readers.

ORDINANCE NO. 45-75
AN ORDINANCE TO ACCEPT THE APPLICATION OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE OHIO CONFERENCE OF THE METHODIST CHURCH FOR THE ANNEXATION OF CERTAIN TERRITORY CONTAINING 23.147 ACRES IN UNION TOWNSHIP TO THE CITY OF WASHINGTON, OHIO.
WHEREAS, a petition for the annexation of certain territory in Union Township was duly filed by the Board of Trustees of the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church; and
WHEREAS, the petition was duly considered by the Board of County Commissioners of Fayette County, Ohio, on September 15, 1975; and
WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners has approved the annexation of the territory to the City of Washington, Ohio, as hereinafter described; and
WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners certified the transcript of the proceedings in connection with the annexation with the map and petition required in connection therewith to the Acting City Auditor who received same on September 16, 1975; and
WHEREAS, sixty days from the date of the filing have now elapsed in accordance with the provisions of RC 709.04; now, therefore,
BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WASHINGTON, FAYETTE COUNTY, OHIO:

SECTION 1: That the proposed annexation as applied for in the petition of the Board of Trustees of the Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church and a majority owners of real estate in the territory sought to be annexed and filed with the Board of County Commissioners of Fayette County, Ohio, on July 7, 1975, and which the petition prayed for annexation to the City of Washington, Ohio, of certain territory adjacent thereto as hereinafter described, and which the petition was approved for annexation to the City of Washington by the Board of County Commissioners on September 15, 1975, be and the same is hereby accepted. ## Ohio Perspective

Building security probed by solons

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An anti-burglar rule, requiring deadbolt security locks in all new apartments and dormitories, will be aired today at a state public hearing.

The Ohio Board of Building Standards must adopt a regulation by Jan. 1 in line with legislation passed overwhelmingly last May by the General Assembly.

"There's no such thing as a foolproof lock," admits Sen. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, sponsor of the bill. "If a guy wants to get in your apartment bad enough, he's going to get in."

But Woodland argues that the sliding cylinder locks will at least thwart amateur or youthful housebreakers. "There's no way that a guy without sophisticated equipment is going to get in," he says.

Although the rulemakers will have a plan before the end of the month, a board spokesman said apartment builders and state officials probably will be allowed "reasonable time" to study the new regulation. That could be anywhere from two weeks to 90 days, the spokesman estimated.

When the new law takes effect as part of the building code, all construction plans for new apartments and dormitories will have to provide for deadbolts on swinging exit doors before receiving state approval.

The style of lock under consideration would be opened from the outside of a door with the same key that is used for the standard flip-tab or latch lock.

When locked, the hardened steel cylinder will be fixed in the bolt with a one-inch throw. The flip tab, often vulnerable to burglar tools or even credit cards, will still be required.

The standards board is also writing into the rule language requiring see-through viewers on the inside of doors "covering at least a 160-degree circular angle." And for those worrisome sliding patio doors, state officials want to require a secondary securing device which would prevent ambitious intruders from removing an entire panel.

"I think they've done a better job with my bill," says Woodland, "and if it takes a reasonable leeway time to get in line with new specifications, I can live with that." He defines reasonable at about 30 days.

Both Woodland and House sponsor James L. Baumann, D-32 Columbus, think further legislation is needed to deal with inadequate security in existing buildings.

Criminal code changes dead this year

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Any chance for Senate action this year on revising and consolidating federal criminal laws has been lost.

The massive bill, almost 10 years in the making, is now before the Senate Judiciary Committee where major amendments will be offered.

The committee's subcommittee on criminal laws and procedures, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., completed its final draft of the proposed criminal code more than a month ago.

McClellan and other sponsors had hoped for full committee action on it before the present session of Congress ends around mid-December, but they now acknowledge there is no prospect of this.

One reason is the extraordinary size and complexity of the measure and the controversy over some of its provisions. The report on the measure by McClellan's subcommittee runs more than 1,300 pages.

In addition, the Judiciary Committee may be tied up for much of the time left in the present session with President Ford's nomination to fill the Supreme Court vacancy left by the retirement of Justice William O. Douglas.

McClellan said he sees virtually no possibility that any progress can be made on the bill before the next session of Congress. This will throw the controversy into an election year.

However, McClellan said that as a member of the commission appointed by the late President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1967 to propose a federal criminal code, he wants to give the Senate an opportunity to vote on the legislation.

Companion measures have been introduced in the House, and the Judiciary Committee there has said it will start hearings two weeks after the Senate completes action.

ORDINANCE NO. 44-75
Adopting Section 513.07 of The Codified Ordinances of the City of Washington, prohibiting the possession for sale or sale of paraphernalia and providing the penalty therefor for a violation.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WASHINGTON, FAYETTE COUNTY, STATE OF OHIO:

SECTION 1. No person shall possess with purpose to sell or sell paraphernalia.

SECTION 2. As used in this section, "paraphernalia" means any instrument, device, article or contrivance used, designed for use, adapted for use or intended for use in ingesting, smoking, inhaling, administering, or preparing any hallucinogen or narcotic drug, as defined in Section 3719 of the Ohio Revised Code. "Paraphernalia" includes, without limitation, the following items:

- (a) Metal, wooden, acrylic, glass, stone, plastic or ceramic marijuiana or hashish pipes with or without screens, permanent screens, hashish heads, or punctured metal bowls;
- (b) Waterpipes designed for use, adaptable for use, or intended for use with marijuiana, hashish, or other controlled substances as defined by the Ohio Revised Code;
- (c) Carburator tubes and devices;
- (d) Smoking and carburator masks;
- (e) Roach clips;
- (f) Separation gins designed for use or intended for use in cleaning marijuiana;
- (g) Cocaine spoons and vials;
- (h) Chamber pipes;
- (i) Carburator pipes;
- (j) Electric pipes;
- (k) Air Driven pipes;
- (l) Chillums;
- (m) Bongs; or
- (n) Ice pipes or chillers.

SECTION 3. As used in this section, "sell", in addition to its customary meaning, includes deliver, barter, exchange, transfer, or give, or offer therefor, and each such transaction made by any person, whether as principal proprietor, agent, servant or employee.

SECTION 4. Whoever violates Section 1 of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor of the first degree.

SECTION 5. This ordinance is declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the preservation of the peace, health, welfare and safety of the citizens of the City of Washington, Ohio, and shall be in full force and effect on and from its date of passage.

PASSED November 26, 1975
Chairman of Council

ATTEST:
JOHN I. STACKHOUSE
Clerk of Council

APPROVED:
GARY D. SMITH
City Solicitor
Dec. 4

McClellan, and Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., ranking minority member of the criminal laws and procedures subcommittee, have said they expect the bill to be amended further.

But they and other sponsors, as well as opponents of some provisions, emphasize the desirability of pulling all the federal criminal laws into a single code.

Hruska recently noted, for example, that there are more than 70 different provisions on theft alone in present law. Definitions and penalties vary, depending on whether the theft was from the mails, a bank, an employee welfare plan and so on.

He also cited other overlaps so that a criminal act often is punishable under many different sections of existing law.

A major purpose of the legislation is to overcome problems of this kind by clarifying, updating and consolidating criminal laws now scattered through 11 volumes of federal statutes.

"Those who would defeat the bill would have us return to present law, with its outdated, inadequate, irrational, unjust, and piecemeal disarray," Hruska said.

Opponents do not quarrel with the objective of establishing a federal crime code for the first time. Their disagreement is with specific provisions that they argue go too far or do not go far enough.

Expert claims human resources wasted

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — As David Lilienthal assesses the condition of America there is a tremendous waste of human resources, an inaction, a negativism, a timidity of leadership, public and private, that is lamentable.

Lilienthal rips federal inertia

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — David Lilienthal's cool control belied his distress. "I'm mad as hell this morning," he said, rising from his desk and handing his listener a brief article clipped from the morning newspaper.

The story told of plans to erect near Belleville, Ill. a $237 million pilot plant for the conversion of coal to synthetic crude oil and "natural" gas. Government and private industry would split the initial costs.

"What in hell have we been doing these past 24 years," said Lilienthal, who as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority and first Atomic Energy Commission chairman, learned you must always be on guard against inertia.

He referred to Page 246, "Volume Three, The Journals of David E. Lilienthal," in which he describes the technology of coal conversion and relates that a private group was ready to build a much larger plant. That was in 1951.

The technology was available then, he said. Informed people knew an alternative to oil was desirable. An investment banking house, Eberstadt & Co., was willing to raise $400 million if assured by government of minimum prices.

"If we meant business that plant would have been built, and through private financing," he said. Other plants would have followed, costs would have fallen, and today we might have had a "very comfortable" alternative to foreign oil.

Now, in the midst of crisis, he said, we finally get moving on a much smaller plant. There was bite but not scorn in his quiet voice. "There is a timidity, a lack of resolution in the decision centers," he said deliberately.

For the past 20 years Lilienthal, 76, has headed his own company, Development and Resources Corp., a unique concern that combines private enterprise and public goals in the large scale, integrated development of natural resources.

One glittering example is the Khuzestan Province of Iran, as large as Illinois, whose land and people were made to blossom by the development of water power, electricity, irrigation, farming, industry, health care facilities and education.

You don't get things done by writing reports, said Lilienthal, briefly recalling his TVA days, when he learned that nothing fails like disbelief and that action itself, even in a small way, always is more convincing than talk.

"We're constipated by reports," he said. In his opinion we're also paralyzed by negativism, and embued with an attitude unbecoming Americans, that problems are too big to handle.

"Our leaders, public and private, are timid and slow and this becomes contagious," he said.

"We're holding ourselves back. If we let ourselves go we have the human energy and resources to do anything we want to do. Human energy distinguishes this country." This nation, he said, is underdeveloped, yet we act as if we can do no more. "Energy is a basic characteristic of a country," he said. "If you've got it in the people they produce the electricity and the gas — and the food and the rest of the country's needs."

He stopped abruptly, fearful he said that people might think he was preaching. Preaching and moralizing, you gathered, were about as useless to him as computer printouts that never were read.

Instead, he said, he'd rather talk about specifics first, generalities later. It is in doing something specific — not talking about it or reporting it or analyzing it — that sets the example to follow, he said.

He gave an illustration: His company had access to a roomful of reports in 1961 that told why commercial coal wouldn't be found in certain parts of the Rocky Mountains. A man investigated. "He walked and walked and walked."

He found it. If we must write reports, he said, we should at least make them appealing not to statisticians but to businessmen "who will be willing to stake their money or reputation or company — reports a man will move on."

Referring to admonitions to save rather than use energy, he declared: "What this country needs is more, not less energy. We can't dally. If we do we'll become more and more dependent on foreign oil."

We cannot, he emphasized, wait 24 years more. "In order for the nation to have a major reliance on coal for fuel, feedstocks, gas, gasoline and oil, we need more than just a relatively little plant in Illinois."

He concluded: "Momentum is the secret of American development. If we wait we lose it. I intend to speak out about it. This is the opening."

lack of a massive program of across-the-board improvement of human skills," he said.

Lilienthal, 76, former chairman and chief architect of the Tennessee Valley Authority and later first chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, views many attitudes today to be a contraction of America's "can do" spirit.

"When you have to do things in this country some of the 'impossible' things happen," he said in an interview at his midtown office, after more than two years of what he described as growing impatience with inaction.

When the nation had to turn out aircraft in World War II it did so — somehow; when TVA had to build 12 dams simultaneously the dams got built; and energy and other developmental challenges can be met equally well, he said, if we just get moving.

The "defensive, overly critical" spirit that prevails, he said, is unbecoming. "Most people aren't happy with the pride of their country being questioned; there is a latent, underlying optimism, and it must be released."

He continued: "This country isn't done. The 'limits of growth doctrine' is phoney," he declared flatly, maintaining it emerged from a continent where "France has its tongue hanging out and the European Russians are still dependent on the United States for food."

"This country is dead if it adopts the European style, the negative attitude toward growth," he said. "We should appreciate the basic dynamics of this country and forget our roots in Europe."

To Lilienthal, an "energy shortage" results from an underuse of human energy. Human energy, "drive, brainpower, creativity, imagination," puts other energy to work for human use.

Utilize this energy, he said, and you solve the problems of producing power for factories and homes, as well as the other essentials of life, including the development of a rich culture and sound government.

TVA didn't change people from being powerless, dispirited people by saving energy, he said. "It came from the use of energy," human energy in conjunction with the raw energy latent in the area.

His own company, Development and Resources Corp., has for the past 20 years worked on the large scale, integrated development of resources throughout the world. His experience: Human energy is the catalyst.

To develop the underutilized natural resources of this country, he said, will take spirit and leadership — human energy. And where will it come from?

In his view it is there, stored as if in batteries, diffused throughout the nation, in local communities and private organizations. There, he said, is where leadership resides — not condensed in what are thought to be great centers of powers.

The mood of the country, he said, "can be turned around much sooner than you think," but not, he added, by government fiat or in fact by any one leader, but instead by local leaders demonstrating through specific projects what can be done.

An example: "The environmental movement is today a major political force, the biggest since Populism. It began with housewives, organized by ordinary people seeking to protect their land. It didn't begin at the top." He concluded: "Speeches and rhetoric won't do it. Summit conferences won't do it. It takes something that happens almost literally in people's own backyards — demonstrations in a small way of private power."

Those little accomplishments and the spirit that directs them is contagious, he said, so much so that even the "power centers" eventually have to take notice.

Paper plant recycles newsprint into newsprint

GARFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Your evening newspaper may once have been your morning newspaper — separated and stripped and pulped and de-inked and washed and reconstituted and reprinted.

That is, if it's printed on paper recycled by the Garden State Paper Co., whose mills here and in California and Illinois are the first in the country to work solely at converting old newsprint into new newsprint.

The three plants process more than 500,000 tons of recycled paper a year for over 200 newspapers. That's 10 per cent of all the newsprint produced in the country, says Joseph McColgan, an administrative vice president of the paper company.

Whether virgin or recycled, a piece of paper consists of hundreds of microscopic wood fibers interlocked by hydrogen bonds. Simply explained, recycling first separates the fibers and then reassembles them.

Richard B. Scudder, former publisher of the Newark Evening News and a founder of the paper company, opened the Garfield mill in 1961, a decade after he began experimenting with the de-inking of old newspapers. He and several colleagues first tied reducing old newspapers to pulp using a kitchen blender and eventually invented a method to recycle waste newspaper.

Separating the fibers in a blender was simple, Scudder has said, but it took 10 years before the experimenters could successfully remove the ink from the fibers so that it did not dye the entire batch.

Recycled paper must fit three specifications if it is to be useful to publishers, McColgan explained in an interview. "One is that the tensile strength of the fibers must be as strong as the virgin fibers. Then the paper must be opaque enough to allow printing on both sides of a sheet and, finally, the paper must be clean enough for clear printing."

Today at the mill here, the recycling procedure takes four hours. Trucks dump baled newspapers onto vibrating conveyors. The controlled vibrations separate the pages and pass them into a 20-foot version of the home blender Scudder improvised with. Equipped with a huge blade and filled with warm water and patented de-inking chemicals, the pulper reduces the newspapers to separate fibers in pulp of an oatmeal consistency. A hose extends into the vat to remove excess materials.

Rotating cylinders then send the stock through five wash cycles to insure cleanliness. Water is the only cleaning agent.

Some of the cleaned stock is stored in tiled towers called stock chests. The fibers that are not stored are directed into one of two papermaking machines. Fed onto a flat, heated screen to dry, when the water has been drawn off the stock lies on a wide, rotating "felt" that winds through the paper-making machines. A computer system monitors speed, weight, brightness and moisture content and automatically transmits electronic orders to correct any defects.

The recycled paper emerges from the machines to be custom cut on to rolls to fit various newspaper printing presses. The rolls are wrapped and serially numbered so that any complaints can be traced to the plant and time of manufacture. Cull rolls — paper that does not meet quality standards — are reprocessed or sold for scrap.

McColgan says the recycling process can be repeated on the same paper numerous times without loss in quality. "We conducted laboratory tests," he reports, "and when we had recycled a sample of paper 20 times we stopped counting."

"The economy makes recycling logical," he adds. "The world paper supply is not expanding as quickly as the demand for it; as it is the United States imports 75 percent of its paper from Canada. Also, the costs of wood and labor have soared, the cost of borrowing money is high and environmental laws must be obeyed when processing virgin paper, which is an added expense." Recycled paper is available at discount prices over virgin paper, McColgan said.

Garden State Paper Co. claims another first, in labor-management relations. McColgan told of a "revolutionary productivity pact," a 10-year agreement with the unions providing for an annual bonus based on the total production at the Garfield plant in which all workers will share. In return the parties agree to submit disputes to binding arbitration. If the workers strike, of course, they forfeit their bonus, but the pact in no way affects the normal wages and benefits discussed at contract time.

The paper company has also encouraged municipalities across the country to collect waste paper for recycling, guaranteeing a certain price for a certain tonnage.
